S.F. ITU Pickets Marching At I-J

San Francisco Typographical Union No. 21, International Typographical Union, established a picket line at the Independent-Journal building in San Rafael today.

The San Fcancisco Union is believed to have a membership of more than 1,000, although it represents fewer than 45 of the I-J's 200-plus employees.

Publisher Wishard A. Brown said the I-J will continue to publish despite the dispute.

"We owe this extra effort to our readers, our advertisers and to all our other employees whose livelihood depends on their I-J paychecks," Brown said.

More than 45,000 Marin and Sonoma County homes depend on the I-J for news of the world and community, which affects their daily lives. The I-J has a record of 108 years of service to the community and, despite the difficulties presented by this unfortunate dispute, we are determined not to interrupt that service," Brown declared.

The previous agreement between the Independent Journal and San Francisco Typographical Union No. 21 expired November 1968, but negotiations had continued until November 1969.

"I-J printers are paid the scale of wages and fringe benefits prevailing in the Bay Area," said Norwin S. Yoffie, general manager of the I-J and management representative in negotiations.

He explained that principal issues include:

"Reproduction or 'bogus' — the practice of settting into type and throwing away material that has already been published.

"Discharge procedures — the union's demand that appeals from discharge should be only to the union.

"Grievance procedures — the right of the management to direct work pending settlement of a grievance.

"Foremen's membership in the union — a practice that subjects the supervisor to union discipline for following the instructions of his employer."

The I-J has mutually agreeable contracts in force with the Pressmans' union, Stereotypers' Union, the Teamster Union, whose members drive I-J delivery trucks and the Photo-Engravers Union.

Some union members crossed San Francisco Typographical Union No. 21's picket lines, as did nearly all of the I-J's non-union employees.

Machinery, Trucks Are Sabotaged

Independent-Journal typesetting machines were sabotaged last night as were half a dozen I/J delivery trucks.

Cut wires and smashed electrical contacts on linecasting machines were discovered in the I-J composing room about midnight after the night crew of printers finished its shift.

Saboteurs punched holes in tires and smashed one delivery truck radiator. They also broke off some ignition keys.

Several I-J employees were pushed and shoved and subjected to obscenities as they made their way through the San Francisco Typographical Union No. 21 picket line to come to work at the San Rafael office this morning.

One employee's clothes were ripped in a scuffle.

Gnoss Officially Out Of Reelection Scene

William A Gnoss, of Novato, dean of the Marin County Board of Supervisors, said last night he will not seek re-election this year.

The announcement came as no real surprise, for Gnoss, as he said he would, told his colleagues yesterday that he did not want to be board chairman next year. Aa vice chairman he would have been in line to succeed John F. McInnin, woh was renamed as chairman.

Reports of Gnoss' retirement also have been circulating for some time.

Gnoss 72, a retired rancher, joined the board in 1952 when he was appointed by former Gov. Earl Warren to fill a vacancy created by the death of Robert H. Trumbull. He did not run in a special election six months later, however, when William Wright was elected.

But he was elected in 1954, again in 1958 and for the last time in 1962. He is a former board chairman.

Novato City Councilman J. Wayne Womack said he definitely would run and would make a formal statement later. Babe Silva, another city councilman, said he had not decided, and Arnold Baptiste, president of the North Marin Federation,

Grim Night At Inquest Recalled

EDGARTOWN, Mass. (UPI) —Sen. Edward M. Kennedy told his two closest friends he was going to report Mary Jo Kopechne's death in his car to police hours earlier but in apparent shock and confusion failed to do it, UPI learned today.

Those friends are Joseph F. Gargan, Kennedy's cousin, and Parul F. Markham, a former U.S. attorney for Massachusetts, who testified for more than two hours Tuesday at the second day of a secret inquest into her death.

Gargan and Markham generally backed to the hilt Kennedy's story about how Miss Kopechne died.

But UPI learned that for the first time Gargan and Markham gave an explanation of why they, as well as Kennedy, failed to report the auto accident which took Miss Kopechne's life July 18. She drowned when a car driven by the 37-year-old senator plunged off a bridge on Chappaquiddick Island into a tidal pond.

One of the major puzzles of this case has been how Gargan and Markham—both bright, young lawyers—could have failed to report the accident themselves or failed to advise the senator to do it himself.

The inquest reconvened in the century-old courthouse at 9:30 a.m. EST today with testimony expected from five girls who, along with Kennedy, Miss Kopechne, 28, and five others, including Gargan and Markham, attended a cookout reunion on the night of the pretty secretary's death.

The girls, however, left the courthouse at 9:52, got into a car and were driven off — without comment —into a swirling snowstorm.

Entering the red brick building this morning were five Edgartown residents who have been called as witnesses, including Dr. Donald R. Mills, the associate medical examiner who said Miss Kopechne drowned, and scuba diver John N. Farrar, who has theorized she lived for several agonizing minutes in an air bubble in the overturned car.

Gargan and Markham, under questioning by Judge James A. Boyle and District Attorney Edmund S. Dinis said Kennedy told them he would report the accident to police immediately upon returning to Edgartown from the island where the accident occurred.

When Gargan and Markham were first told by the senator there had been an accident, they were at a rented cottage where the party was held. Kennedy returned there from th bridge and told his two friends of his unsuccessful efforts to save the young woman and how he now wanted their help in the rescue attempt.

The three returned to the narrow, rude bridge and together dived into the swift-flowing salt waters, almost drowning. They failed to find the girl.

At this point, Gargan and Markham said, they returned to the tiny island ferry which plies back and forth from Edgartown to Chappaquiddick, but it was shut down for the night. Kennedy jumped into the 120-yard-wide channel and swam across, leaving Gargan and Markham standing at the ferry slip, thinking the senator was going to police.

McCarthy To Leave Senate; Would-Be Heirs Lining Up

Marin's veteran state senator John F. McCarthy R-San Rafael announced yesterday that he will retire from politics this year.

McCarthy 45 was the youngest senator in California history when first elected 20 years ago and for many years had considerable power in the upper house as a member of its bipar tisan "club" that ran the senate. (See editorial page 42(

McCarthy in a statement issued to the press said "Public service has been a way of life for me but I sincerely feel it is now time for me to turn my efforts and attention toward another part of my life that is important to me too -- my family and the family business." The business is land development.

In an interview with the Independent-Journal in his Sacramento office McCarthy discounted speculation that he was retiring because the senior senators in the "club" had been ousted last year in a revolt by junior senators impatient with the strict seniority system.

His announcement sparked interest among a small army of potential candidates including at least nine Republicans and two Democrats.

But one will enjoy McCarthy's strong endorsement -- Raymond H. Shone of Nicasio, an attorney and one of McCarthy's original supporters. "I will do everything I possibly can for Ray" McCarthy told the I/J.

"He is competent and can do our community a great deal of good" said McCarthy but he insisted that he did not ask Shone to run. "It was his idea" McCarthy said.

Shone was McCarthy's campaign manager in 1950 and has led all of the senator's campaigns since including the unsuccessful 1962 bid for nomination for lieutenant governor.

SEN. JOHN F. McCARTHY
Leaving capitol

Shone was master of ceremonies at a gathering of about 175 political and personal friends of McCarthy last night at Peacock Gap Country Club and was openly endorsed by McCarthy. "I hope I can do something for him if he so desires and I hope he may be a candidate for public office" McCarthy said.

But earlier yesterday McCarthy told the I-J that Shone had been working for the past three months to organize his (McCarthy's) campaign and already had a staff headquarters financing and campaign literature.

Also certain to run even if McCarthy had run again is former Marin Supervisor Peter H. Behr. He is expected to announce his candidacy for the GOP nomination next week.

Other potential Marin Republican candidates are former supervisor Ernest N. Kettenhofen Assemblyman William T. Bagley attorney John A. Busterud and McCarthy's former administrative assistant Michael Kahl.

Kettenhofen long has wanted a shot at the Senate seat and is known to be considering running noq h that McCarthy is out of the race.

Bagley said "it's not out of the question that service in the Senate would be a better place to serve the public."

Busterud was an assemblyman representing San Francisco before he moved to Marin.

Kahl.28.left McCarthy in 1968 to join the Nixon campaign and is top aide and chief troubleshooter for Robert H. Finch secretary of health education and welfare.

A Novatan Kahl ironically is in the same position as McCarthy when the senator first ran -- a young man out to buck the established local powers.

The list of potential GOP candidates also includes four from outside Marin. McCarthy's district was limited to Marin until the 1966 redistricting when it was stretched to include Napa and Solano counties.

In Napa Supervisor Joseph G. Peatman a Napa attorney reportedly is considering entry into the race.

In Vallejo attorney William McPherson 47 also is thinking about running. A member of the Solano County Republican Central Committee of which he has been chairman twice McPherson told the I-J that Solano Republicans would like the seat to go to a Solanoan.

McPherson serves on the board of governors of the California Maritime Academy in Vallejo as does Kettenhofen.

The ninth potential GOP candidate is Don Pinkerton of Fairfield who previously has unsuccessfully challenged Assemblyman John F. Dunlap D-Vallejo. Pinkerton owns hardware stores in Fairfield and Vacaville.

Dunlap often has been men-

Laird Fears Russ Forcing Arms Race

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird said today the United States will have to consider possible production of a new strategic bomber or deploy more strategic missiles at sea if the Soviet Union's offensive threat continues to mount.

The defense chief told newsmen that new offensive weapons may be required if the Soviet Union continues its high rate of deployment of SS9 missiles which could knock out U.S. retaliatory forces and if there is no progress in the joint U.S.-Soviet arms limitation talks in Helsinki.

Laird made clear no decision has yet been made to go into new offensive arms production, but he said various options will be considered by the Nixon administration in forthcoming deliberations by the National Security Council.

Laird said several options are open.

One, he said, would be speeding up work on a new nuclear-bomb-carrying plane to succeed the B52. The craft, now designated B1, has been under research for years.

Another would be accelerating the undersea-launched missile program, which would essentially be upgrading the Polaris submarine fleet with more subs and more far-reaching missiles.

State Gives PG&E Gas Rates Boost

Red Buildup Spurs Need For Bomber, Sea Rockets

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)— Pacific Gas and Electric Company was granted a $16,155,000 annual gas rate increase Tuesday by the California Public Utilities Commissions.

Commissioner A.W. Gatov, the lone dissenter in the 4-1 decision, said the increase was "highly inflationary and exceedingly generous" and had been "written in unseemly haste."

The increase will cost the average residential user 53 to 60 cents a month. It was authorized to boost the company's annual rate of return by more than 1 per cent and to pay its federal tax surcharge.

The boost came 10 months after the PUC increased PG&E's gas rates by $6.7 million. The company had asked for a total of $33 million in the two phases of the rate boost, and the PUC approved a hike of nearly $23 million.

Four commissioners appointed by Gov. Ronald Reagan approved the majority decision. Gatov, whose term expires at the end of the year, is the last holdover appointee. of former Gov. Edmund Brown.

The rate boost will increase the profit margin of PG&E's gas department from the current authorized level of 6.25 per cent net in 1961 to a new rate of 7.3 per cent. The company recently requested a $67.4 million—or 9.5 per cent—boost in its electrical rates to Northern and Central California customers.

The P U C authorized the higher gas rates to offset increased gas costs, to pay the company's 5 per cent federal surcharge this year, and to raise the rate of return to its stockholders.

Malaysian Leaders Bid Agnew Welcome

KUALA LUMPUR , Malaysia (AP) — Vice President Spiro T. Agnew arrived in this Malaysian capital tonight and received a warm welcome from Prime Minister Tunku Abdul Rahman. But leftist groups circulated leaflets protesting his visit.

Malaysian police scoured Kuala Lumpur making security checks as the vice president and his wife began an overnight stay on this seventh stage of their 26-day Asian tour. He leaves Friday morning for Singapore.

Seventy Secret Service agents led by agent Clint Hill checked and rechecked every foot of Agnew's 15-mile auto route from Subang airport to his hotel. Agnew and his wife Judy were to ride in two bulletproof cars that were flown in.

Hill was the agent who jumped onto the rear of the presidential limousine after President John F. Kennedy was shot in Dallas in 1963.

The Secret Service also made extensive security checks at points Agnew was to visit—the airport, the hotel, Malaysia's national monument and the Royal Selangor golf course. Informants said a request to search the official residence of the prime minister, Tunku Abdul Rahman, was turned down.

"They are trying to take over, and this is giving us all a very sour taste," said one Malaysian official.

Another commented: "Why do they have to do everything as if they were in America?"

Officials have added 3,500 Malaysian police to the capital force to work with the American agents during Agnew's visit.

Two Communist-influenced parties, the Malayan People's Party and the Labor Party of Malaya circulated a joint statement saying Agnew's visit was "most unwelcome to the people of this country."

Other left-wing elements circulated pamphlets in Chinese calling for "revenge" for the death of a Chinese man killed by local police during an anti-American demonstration during the 1966 visit of President Lyndon B. Johnson.

Borman To Senate?

PHOENIX, Ariz. AP - Astronaut Frank Borman says he may run in 1974 for the U.S. Senate seat now held by Republican Barry Goldwater.

Goldwater said in November he probably would not seek re-election and that he would like to see Borman succeed him. Goldwater's term expires in 1974.

Borman, commander of the Apollo 8 flight, said yesterday there was a chance he would seek a public office in 1972 "but right now I don't think so."

Spaceman worn In WASHINGTON AP - Astronaut Michael Collins was sworn in yesterday as assitant secretary of state for public affairs.

Welcoming the 39-year-old spaceman to the team, Secretary of State William P. Rogers remarked:

"There is a need to have a very aggressive public affairs bureau at the State Department to convey the message to the American people."

Collins said he thought his new job was in many ways "more challenging than the trip to the moon."

Visits Kremlin

MOSCOW UPI—Sen. Eugene McCarthy, D-Minn., met for an hour today with the chairmen of the two houses of the Supreme Soviet Parliament and visited the rooms used by Vladimir I. Lenin in the Kremlin.

McCarthy arrived in Moscow yesterday for a five-day private visit, hopeful of a meeting with Premier Alexei N. Kosygin. No appointment has been announced.

The senator's Kremlin visit came following a meeting with Ivan V. Spriirdonov and Justas I. Paleckis, the nation's two parliamentary leaders.

Crash Toll Rises

SAN DIEGO, AP—The death toll has risen to 14 as a result of the Dec. 22 crash of a F8 crusader jet into a crowded hangar at Miramar Naval Air Station.

Richard C. Boniella of San Diego, a Navy petty officer, died in Balboa Naval Hospital Tuesday, the Navy announced. he was burned over 95 per cent of his body in the crash.

The Navy says nine men remain hospitalized, all in satisfactory condition except Petty Officer 2 c Kenneth Funk of Covina, who is on the serious list.

Tax Break Hit

WASHINGTON AP - Robert Finch, secretary of Health, Education and Welfare, says he is urging the Treasury Department to wipe out tax breaks for private schools that are created to get around desegregation.

Finch told newsmen yesterday that he favors "reversal of the present policy" on the tax exemptions and will take it up with Treasury officials. The exemptions are currently being defended by the Justice Department in two separate suits by Mississippi citizens.

Private schools have been flourishing, primarily in the South, since the Supreme Court ofdered immediate public school desegregation last fall. Finch said they will become more popular nationwide.

The Treasury Department held in August 1967 that private schools-even those designed to maintain segregation-were entitled to exemptions as long as they were not direct instruments of state policy.

Air Fare Boost?

WASHINGTON AP - earnings in the airline industry last year were at the lowest level since 1961 but the Air Transport Association says it's too early to say whether another fare increase will be sought.

Dr. George W. James, ATA's economics expert, said yesterday some airlines are advocating fare increases on top of the two granted in 1969.

James told newsmen that Secor D. Browne, chairman of the Civil Aeronautics Board, has said another fare increase may be needed.

Net earnings of the scheduled airline industry for the 12 months ending Sept. 30 were $92.2 million, nearly 67 per cent lower than for a comparable period in 1968.

Dinner Fracas Leads To Jail

A 35-yearold San Francisco man was arrested last night on suspicion of assault with a deadly weapon after he allegedly struck another man with a log during an altercation in an Inverness Park residence.

Booked into Marin County Jail, with bail unset today, was Richard David Cole, 35.

The victim, John R. Reyes, 31-year-old San Francisco hairdresser, was treated at Marin General Hospital for scalp cuts.

Sheriff's deputies said they were called to the house at 181 Portola Avenue. Cole a neighbor had summoned the deputies. They found Reyes lying on the floor bleeding profusely.

Deputies said that Cole apparently struck Reyes on the head with a fireplace log during a dinner arguement which followed Reyes heavy drinking.

FBI Joins Hunt For Yablonskis, Killers

By BOB DUBILL
Associated Press Writer

NEWARK, N.J. (AP) — Widespread Mafia infiltration of New Jersey police and politics— to the point of allegedly influencing selection of a state police head—are portrayed in FBI transcripts of electronic eavesdropping filed in federal court here.

Twelve volumes covering four years of recording name dozens of public personalities including Singer Frank Sinatra, Mayor Hugh Addonizio and Police Director Dominick Spina, of Newark, State Police Supt. David B. Kelly and former Supt. Dominic Capello, powerful Democratic leader John V. Kenny, and state Democratic Chairman Salvatore Bontempo.

The transcripts, produced Tuesday in the extortion trial of reputed Mafia boss Angelo "Gyp" DeCarlo, tell of payoffs to public officials, loansharking and gambling operations, skimoffs from Las Vegas gambling —even infiltration of the telephone company and Masonic ic lodge.

OVER OBJECTIONS

The transcripts were made public by U.S. judge Robert F. Shaw over vigorous defense objections. Shaw reserved decision on whether they could be used as evidence in the trial.

Among highlights of the documents:

State police — An FBI memorandum said "it appeared that Kenny had Capello appointed state police superintendent through Gov. Richard J. Hughes at DeCarlo's request. Kenny also has agreed to have Capt. David Kelly appointed superintendent to succeed Capello at DeCarlo's request."

Payoffs—Capello and Spina are named as having received payments. The transcripts also talk of payments to Middlesex county police and David T. Wilentz, county Democratic leader.

Sinatra—Harold "Kayo" Konigsberg, a Bayonne loanshark now in prison, talked with DeCarlo about getting money for Jamaican hotel if there were a possibility of gambling. Konigsberg is quoted: "I'll see Sinatra and have a talk with him."Sinatra is fighting a subpoena and an arrest warrant from the State Investigations Commission which called him in its inquiry into crime.

MAYOR DEALINGS

Addonizio—In one of many references to dealings with Newark's mayor, DeCarlo is quoted: "Hughie helped us along. He gave us the city." Addonizio was recently indicted on extortion and income tax evasion charges.

Las Vegas—DeCarlo is quoted as saying Gerado "Jerry" Catena, reputed head of a Mafia group, received $150,000 from "skimoffs" of Las Vegas casinos. A skimoff is illegal diversion of casino profits.

Kenny—Among several references to the Democratic strongman, the late Joseph "Little Joe" DeBenedictis, an Essex County political figure, is quoted as telling DeCarlo: "If we get this deal--if Kenny okays this deal with the paint on the New Jersey Turnpike—we're in." He was quoted as figuring a 25 per cent profit on $1 million worth of paint.

Case Handed To Superior Court

Peter Lee Arbuthnot 31 of Mill Valley was bound over to Marin Superior Court yesterday on a charge of possessing marijuana and a device for smoking it on Sept. 29.

He is to be arraigned Monday.

Teamsters Ask Hike In Trucking Pay

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Teamsters union formally served demands on the nation's trucking industry today for wage increases of $1 an hour per year for three years.

The massive contract demands covering some 450,000 truck drivers also included requests for $7.50 per week per year in pension and health and welfare benefits, and a two-cent-per-mile boost in the current 12.3-cents-per-mile rate for long distance drivers paid on a mileage basis.

The wage demands alone were estimated at well in excess of 60 per cent over a there-year pact for hourly paid workrs now averaging around $4 per hour and who make up some 350,000 of the workers involved.

The demands prompted immediate objections from trucking sources at the opening of the nationwide contract negotiations who called them "fantastic" and warned of the possibility of a nationwide lockout if they aren't sharply slashed. Contracts involving some 12,000 companies expire March 31.

Frank Fitzsimmons is acting as Teamsters president in the absence of the union's imprisoned president, James R. Hoffa. A Teamsters etc., A086WX at 5th graf.

Sinatra's Name In FBI's Maifa Probe

CLARKSVILLE, Pa. (AP) — FBI agents have joined state police investigators seeking to solve the murders of United Mine Workers leader Joseph A. "Jock" Yablonski and his wife and daughter.

But as federal authorities entered the case Tuesday night on the orders of Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell, the state policeman in charge of the investigation said the trail of the killers was cold.

"We are conducting a thorough, wide open investigation," said Capt. Joseph Snyder. "But we still have no solid lead or motive."

Snyder added that his men were not pursuing any particular theory on the case, referring to charges by Yablonski's two sons that the slayings were linked to their father's unsuccessful bid for the presidency of the UMW last month.

"I wouldn't say the slayings had anything to do with union matters or that they didn't," Snyder said. "We are investigating every angle."

The pajama-clad bodies of Yablonski, 59, his wife Margaret, 57, and their 25-year-old daughter Charlotte, were found Monday afternoon in bedrooms of the family's rural home in this southwestern Pennsylvania coal mining town 35 miles south of Pittsburgh.

Authorities said all three had been shot with a .38-caliber pistol—Yablonski five times and the two women twice—three or four days earlier.

Mitchell ordered the FBI into the case to "determine whether or not the three daths in any way involv federally protected rights of labor union members." Federal assistance had been requested by Yablonski's sons and Shafer.

Pennsylvania Gov. Raymond P.

In a statement, the sons, Kenneth J. and Joseph "Chip" Yablonski, charged the killings were the work of "professional assassins."

"There are no doubts that these horrible misdeeds are an outgrowth of our father's most recent bid to win election to the presidency of the United Mine Workers of America," the brothers said.

The brothers, both attorneys, to the UMW's Washington headquarters, requesting that no international officers or employes of the union attend the funeral.

Yablonski and his wife and daughter will be buried Friday in Washington, Pa., following a solemn Requiem Mass at St. Thomas Roman Catholic church in Clarksville. The Mass will be celebrated by the Rt. Rev. Msgr. Charles Owen Rice of Pittsburgh, who is known as "the labor priest."

As a memorial to Yablonski, miners stayed off the job at scattered pits in Pennsylvania, Ohio and West Virginia Tuesday after they were met at mine entrances by roving pickets. An estimated 7,000 miners were temporarily idle in southwestern Pennsylvania, but the majority were reported back at work early today.

In northern West Virginia, however, miners were urged to continue the work stoppage both to pay tribute to Yablonski and to exert pressure on authorities to find his killer.

Dr. Hawey A. Wells of Morgantown, W.Va., a co-chairman of the Physicians Committee for Miners' Health and Safety, declared: "The rank and file should not return to work until each district and international officer of the UMW adequately clears himself in this unbearable murder." He said leaders of the union should voluntarily also said they sent a telegram

Burns Will Tell Plans Tomorrow

SACRAMENTO (UPI)—Veteran Sen. Hugh M. Burns said today he would announce Thursday whether he will retire or seek re-election.

Burns, D-Fresno, declined to say flatly he would retire but indicated that he would step down after 34 years as a legislator.

"The press has been speculating that I'll retire, but I have a good mind to confound them and run again," the former Senate president pro tempore grinned to a newsman.

Burns was unseated last year by a coalition of insurgent Republicans and Democrats after holding the powerful post 13 years.

Why Blank Spots In Influenza Map?

WASHINGTON (AP) — Government disease detectives are trying to solve a year-old influenza mystery: why did six states essentially escape last winter's raging epidemic of Hong Kong flu?

If they could crack it, the solution could have worldwide significance.

They said so Thursday in reiterating their confidence the United States will be spared any nationwide epidemic of flu this winter, despite the mounting influenza crisis affecting wide areas of Europe.

Indeed, the medical experts said, it's unlikely there will be more than sporadic or limited outbreaks in America, like some that have occurred already in Alaska and Puerto Rico.

MYSTERY QUESTIONS

Recalling last winter's epidemic of Hong Kong flu that sickened many thousands of Americans and killed at least 3,800, the experts said they are puzzled by questions like these:

Why were six states—Mississippi, Oklahoma, Texas, Wisconsin, Nebraska and Hawaii—virtually by-passed by the wave of Hong Kong virus, technically known as A-2-1968?

Was it because of some climatic or environmental factors—or for some other reason not yet even thought of?

And will those same states have the same experience again—although now theoretically susceptible to sporadic outbreaks from this year's reappearance of the same virus?

Most residents of the other 44 states are now temporarily immune to the microbe, simply because they were infected last winter.

In contrast, last winter's epidemic struck relatively few people in Europe, thereby leaving thousands vulnerable to attack this winter.

It is possible the six by-passed states will essentially escape again this winter for the same still undetermined reason they did a year ago, said Dr. James O. Mason, deputy director of the U.S. Public Health Service's Communicable Disease Center (CDC) in Atlanta, Ga.

But he indicated, in a telephone interview, that it's perhaps more likely that "sporadic outbreaks" of flu will occur in those states as well as in individual communities throughout the country that were virtually untouched by last winter's sourge.

'WE DON'T KNOW'

"These are the things we are trying to understand about influenza," he said. "We really don't understand how or why it spreads in the fashion it does.

"Indeed, the biggest mystery about last winter's epidemic of Hong Kong flu is this:

"Why did a lot of Europe escape infection and excess mortality from the disease while the United States, at the same time, had major outbreaks, with an excess of deaths? Both parts of the world were, in theory, equally susceptible to the Hong Kong virus which represented a new mutant strain of influenza virus."

In the United States this winter, Mason said, there may also be "sporadic outbreaks" of another type of influenza—called Type-B—in communities relatively untouched by this type last winter.

Type-B, which mainly affects school-age children, is one of several forms of traditional influenza which cropped up periodically long before the so-called Asian and Hong Kong strains appeared.

ALASKA TROUBLES

As for the current situation in the United States, Mason gave this rundown:

There already has been considerable illness in parts of Alaska, with several outbreaks confirmed as Hong Kong flu and the rest rated as flu-like ailments.

"But it's interesting to note," he said, "that the outbreaks have occurred primarily in communities not affected last year."

In the continental United States, there have been a few confirmed cases of Hong Kong flu in Connecticut; one in New York; and "small outbreaks of flu-like illness in three counties of West Virginia and in Des Moines, Iowa."

There have been "several small scattered outbreaks" of Hong Kong-like flu in Puerto Rico; and a few isolated cases, definitely established as Hong Kong flu, in Hawaii.

Asked whether significance is attached to the situation in Hawaii—one of the six states that escaped last year—Mason said:

"It's still too early to tell whether Hawaii might be an area that would have more flu than others."

He said Hawaii's balmy climate might have been a factor in her escape last year.

But, when asked about the fact that Wisconsin—noted for its severe winters—also was essentially bypassed, Mason said:

"I couldn't attempt to answer that one. It's remotely possible that Wisconsin, for example, may have unknowingly been exposed, the year before last, to the older strain of A-2 Asian flu that pre-dated the Hong Kong strain. And this may have provided just enough immunity to help people avoid attack by the newer strain."

There are currently an estimated one billion unfilled cavities in need of attention in this country, according to the American Dental Assn.

Condition Of Inmate Is Good

A 31-year-old San Quentin Prison inmate who fell 60 feet from a scaffolding was reported in good condition today at the prison hospital with a broken leg and toe and a cut head.

Associate Warden James W.L. Park said Homer L. Green of Los Angeles County fell yesterday while working with a painting crew in the prison's west cell block.

The prisoner who is serving a sentence for possession of marijuana for sale hit the roof of an office in the cell block and bounced off to the cell block floor, Park said.

First School Racial Test On West Coast

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A Negro woman says she applied for a teaching job in Pasadena in 1959 and the receptionist told her: "The maids' applications are being taken downstairs."

"I felt like Joe Louis had hit me in the stomach," said Doris Foster, a witness Tuesday at the Justice Department's first school racial discrimination trial on the West Coast.

Mrs Foster testified she now is girls' counselor at Pasadena's McKinley Junior High School, a job she got in 1964 after three years of substitute teaching in the district.

Attorneys say the discrimination case—involving an estimated 150 witnesses—could last up to six weeks.

At issue is the government's accusation that the Pasadena Board of Education has contributed to racial segregation and has delayed integration.

In opening remarks, Charles Quaintance, the government's chief counsel in the case, said the Justice Department wants the school district to set up a workable timetable to increase integration markedly in all Pasadena public schools by September 1970.

District officials contend they need another year.

John Pollock, representing the school board, asserted in his opening statement that racial imbalance in the city schools was not the result of board policy.

"There is no constitutional duty on the part of a school district to change the racial complexion of schools where the racial complexion is not the district's doing," Pollock told U.S. District Court Judge Manuel L. Real.

Real is hearing the case without a jury.

Feared, Fabled Tigers Close To Extinction

LONDON, Toronto News Service — The Tiger is not burning so bright these days.

In fact, it is getting dangerously close to extinction. It has been estimated that there are only about 600 of these beautiful beasts left throughout the world.

The recent edition of the British National Appeal of the World Wildlife Fund Magazine points out that six out of seven races of tigers are listed in the red data book.

This is a record published by the International Union for the Conservation of Nature, and all the animals included are in danger of extinction.

"Tiger Country" renges from the Caucasas to Sumatra.

Siberian Tigers, the beautiful fluffy-tailed cats, are the largest. They inhabit remote parts of Manchuria, Russia and Korea, and it has been estimated there are about 100 in Russia and China and 50 in Korea. In Russia and Korea they are fully protected.

The Caspian Tiger is found in northern Iran, Afghanistan and Russia, and there are about 60 to 90 of them left. These, too, are protected.

The Chinese Tiger doesn't fare nearly so well. Although there is not a lot of information available, it is believed it is hunted indiscriminately, as its habitat is invaded for agricultural development. It probably still exists in central, eastern and southern China, but is believed to be quite rare.

Some estimates of the numbers of the Javan Tigers say there are a dozen in the Betiti Forest Reserve in East Java, although others say there are as few as three of four.

No tally has been able to be made of the Sumatran Tiger, but it is possible a few may still love in the northern and mountainous regions.

It is thought that Bali Tiger is extinct, but two or three may remain.

So, with a possible 20 tigers in China, the census stands at a mere 275 tigers representing six species.

The seventh is the Bengali Tiger, the most prized in the fur trade. A tiger skin coat sells in London for upwards of $10,000 pounds — the most expensive coat in the world. Estimates of how many of these beautiful orange and black cats are left, also vary. One figure quoted in 1961 put the tiger population in the forests of India, Pakistan and Nepal at 2000.

In a book published this year — The Twilight of India's Wildlife — the author gives the figure as 2,800, but admits he takes into account the old saying of the jungle people: "For every tiger you see at least five see you."

However, other researchers claim that 600 is an optimistic maximum total for all tigers . . . everywhere.

World War II brought the greatest change to the tiger's way of life, and subsequent decline. To begin with, there was the wanton destruction of the thick forests the tiger demands for living space. Its habits vary widely from those of the lion. It roams widely — sometimes 20 to 30 miles through the deep forest in one night. Mating is haphazard, and happens only if a pair cross one another's paths at the right time. Tigers are solitary beasts and if there aren't enough of them, they don't breed.

In the past 20 years the two most powerful weapons against the tiger have been jeeps and pesticide. According to Wildlife Magazine, unscrupulous hunters greedy for skin money, set off in jeeps at night and gun down everything unfortunate enough to come into the headlights.

The pesticide that is equally devastating to the big cats is a poison that is easily purchased and, in some parts, distributed free to farmers.

It is used to poison meat left near the tiger runs, and death is quick and agonizing.

Because of agricultural developments, much of the tiger's natural habitat is disappearing. For this reason, the World Wildlife Fund is helping to create reserves in Nepal and Pakistan, and is concerned with four sanctuaries. The 120-square mile Chitawan Wildlife Sanctuary in Nepal is extremely rich in wildlife, including some other threatened species including the Great Indian Rhinoceros.

Two new sanctuaries that are being planned are the Karnali in central-west Nepal, and the Sukla Phuta area which encloses swamp, dry grassland and heavy forest.

In Pakistan, the Sunderbans Tidal Jungle at the delta of the Ganges and the Bram opoutra, also provides ideal conditions for a tiger sanctuary.

It is hoped that the small reserve will be enlarged and developed as a tourist attraction, with easy access to the jungle along the many river tributaries.

One factor which makes the tiger one of the easier animals to save from extinction, is its own adaptability to wide range of temperatures — from minus 30 degrees in Manchuria to the great heat of the tropical savannahs.

As the one-time hunter of man-eating tigers, naturalist Jim Corbett said: "The tiger is a large-hearted gentleman with boundless courage and when he is extermined, as exterminated he will be unless public opinion rallies to his support, India will be the poorer by having lost the finest of her fauna."

France Defends Weapons Policy

PARIS (AP) — The French government defended today its Middle East arms policy.

Government spokesman Leo Hamon said France was not the only country selling arms in the Middle East, or the only Western nation negotiating an arms sale with the new Libyan military regime.

Hamon conceded that negotiations are under way between France and Libya "in the framework of cooperation in all domains." The conditions of any eventual arms sale to Libya, he said, would conform "to France's general policy."

This, as recalled by Foreign Minister Maurice Schumann at the Cabinet session, was an embargo on arms deliveries to countries France considers as belligerents in the Middle East conflict. These states are Israel, Egypt, Syria and Jordan.

Schumann, however, gave a new twist to it when he said, as Hamon reported, "this policy varies according to the offensive character of the arms, the geographic position of the buyers, their direct participation or not in the battle and finally the course of the conflict itself."

A request for Mirages was included in the Libyan arms order, as well as heavy tanks and the French UHF, low-level radar detection system. The original request was for 50 Mirages, informed sources reported. But now the government is giving assurances it will sell no more than 15 of the planes to Libya.

The quantity of the arms requested by Libya, France's initial willingness to consider such a deal as well as the political and economic implications of French penetration in Libya prompted the U.S. government to express its official concern last month.

U.S. Teachers' Waste Queried By Educator

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP) — A prominent educator says it is time for a major reconstruction of America's public school systems because the nation's "public is not going to put up much longer" with the present status of education.

"Few teachers really understand how learning takes place" today, Dr. Byron W. Hansford said Tuesday. Hansford, education commissioner for Colorado and president of the National Council of Chief State School Officers, addressed his remarks to members of the Alabama State Education Department.

Hansford called for a total revamping of the nation's educational structure, including a provision for the constant retraining of teachers. Under existing conditions, he said, America's instructors are "wasting 90 per cent of their time in doing what they are doing."

Rural Suicide Rate Puzzling

ATHENS, Ga. (AP) — The suicide rate in rural areas will be higher than in most metropolitan areas in the United States this year, a sociologist at the University of Georgia predicts.

Dr. Leonard L. Linden said Tuesday approximately 60 per cent of all suicides in five Southern states—Georgia, Alabama, Louisiana, Mississippi and Arkansas—now occur in rural areas. A similar trend is evident in other parts of the country, Linden says.

"We don't know why the rural suicide rate is on the increase," he said.

Linden said one of the contributing factors to the rate increase may be that rural residents are morally confused.

Fracas Erupts As Daley Testifies

CHICAGO (AP) — Mayor Richard J. Daley has testified he urged city officials to cooperate with antiwar groups during the Democratic National Convention in 1968.

But the long awaited appearance of the mayor Tuesday at the trial of seven men accused of riot conspiracy during the convention was upstaged by a fracas between spectators and marshals at the back of the courtroom and continual legal infighting between Judge Julius J. Hoffman and defense lawyers.

The defendants summoned the mayor in an attempt to show that Daley was responsible for the violent street disorders during the week of the convention.

But in the two hours that Daley was questioned by defense attorney William M. Kunstler, Judge Hoffman sustained 75 objections by Thomas A. Foran, the U.S. district attorney.

Kunstler twice asked that Daley be declared a hostile witness so he could be questioned in cross-examination style, but Judge Hoffman denied each motion. He said the mayor was "very friendly and acted in a gentlemanly manner."

In maintaining the defense contention that officials were responsible for the violence during the convention, Kunstler tried to ask Daley about his April 1968 news conference statement that arsonists should be shot and killed, and his later orders to police and other city officials concerning antiwar groups.

Daley's reference to arsonists had been made following an outbreak of rioting and burning on Chicago's West Side in Apil 1968. He said at the time that "an arsonist is a murderer" and "should be shot right on the spot."

Regarding his instructions concerning antiwar groups, Daley testified he issued orders to all city department heads to cooperate in every way with groups wishing permits to march or to sleep in Lincoln Park.

Sleeping permits later were denied by the Chicago Park District on grounds that the parks are required by city ordinance to close at 11 p.m. daily. No parade permits were issued, but a permit was given for an afternoon rally in Grant park during convention week.

Minutes after Daley's testimony began, a fracas broke out in the rear row of the room. Marshals dragged out two girls and a long-haired young man for hissing.

The three were later charged with forcible interfering with marshals. They were released on $200 bond.

Unmanned Buoy Will Replace Bay Lightship

The San Francisco lightship, guardian of maritime safety outside the Golden Gate, is expected to be replaced with an unmanned buoy, the Coast Guard has announced.

A manned lightship has been on duty 11 miles outside the gate for the past 72 years.

The expected replacement will be 42 feet high and 40 feet in diameter. It will be equipped with a 7,500 candlepower light, a fot signal with a three-mile range and a radio beacon with a 20-mile range.

The first such buoy to be installed is in service at Sandy Hook, N.J. The first on the west coast is expected to be placed near Eureka. The one expected for San Francisco is under construction at Bath, Maine.

Bay Area mariners have been asked for comments regarding the change and if solid reasons are produced for keeping the ship, it will be kept, the Coast Guard said. There were some objections to the Sandy Hook installation, but apparently not serious enough to sway the Coast Guard.

Classes Slated In Childbirth

Expectant parents are invited to enroll in two classes which began this week in Greenbrae on pregnancy, labor and childbirth.

Taught by two registered physical therapists, Mrs. Margaret Farley and Sharon Melquist, the nine-week classes, sponsored by the Marin Education for Childbirth Program, will include techniques for relaxing, breathing, posture control, breast feeding and post natal recovery.

Husbands will be invited to attend five of the sessions, which will include two films on childbirth. Expectant mothers must have written permission from their doctors to attend.

Further information may be obtained from the office at Mrs. Gunhild Brown at 1300 South Eliseo Drive, where the classes are being held.

Emergency loans of more than $50-million have been made to victims of the hurricane Camille by the Small Business Administration.

Joint Civic Luncheon

The Mill Valley City Council and chamber of Commerce will hold a joint luncheon meeting at noon Saturday at the Palate Restaurant in Mill Valley to discuss items of mutual interest. The luncheon is open to the public.

SUBWAY FARE HIKE PROTESTED

A plainclothes detective (center) and a New York Transit Authority policeman wrestle to the ground a young subway crasher collared at Herald Square. The youth attempted to enter the subway yesterday without paying his fare, as a group calling itself "Youth Against War and Fascism" protested the city's new 30-cent fare.

In-Depth Study Of Traffic Authorized

Sausalito city councilmen last night authorized an in-depth study of traffic, transportation and parking needs in the city's pending and controversial waterfront development.

The council voted 4-0 to hire Sacramento traffic engineer D. Jackson Faustman to analyze all three aspects of the plan. Mayor Earl F. Dunphy was absent.

The study will cost $3,000, City Mgr. George M. Patterson told the council. He recommended that federal funds now earmarked for other city studies be used to pay two-thirds of the cost with the remaining$1,000 to be paid out of the general reserve fund.

He recommended the diverting to the federal grant funds because of the immediate need by the city for the traffic and parking study, which is expected to effect strongly the central waterfront development.

A proposal submitted by Faustman indicated the final report should be ready in about six to nine months. He also said a roadside interview study "would be highly desirable" and said he would provide the questionaire for the survey but that the city would be responsible for actually conducting it.

Faustman, in a letter, told the council his study would be based on the premise that the city wanted to close Bridgeway and the central waterfront to tourist autos, that large parking lots at the north and south ends of the city were desirable and that the city was interested in developing a mass transportation system to shuttle tourists from the parking areas to the central area.

the Sausalito City Council also:

TIFFANY PARK — Set Jan 31 as the date for a council field trip to the proposed Tiffany Park, which is now under construction.

APARTMENT — Approved by 4-0 a permit to allow Malcolm Dewees of Sausalito to build a 12-unit housing development on Hect Avenue.

BICYCLE SIGNS — Referred to the police department a request that the city erect signs designating a bicycle route through the city.

BOND SALE — Set Feb. 17 as the date for sale of bonds for the city's new fire station.

PARKING — Denied by 4-0 vote a request from five residents to change from one to two hour parking on Caledonia Street.

GARBAGE — Gave final adoption to a resolution setting new garbage rates, effective Jan. 1 of this year. New rates are $2.60 per onnth for one can, $4.75 for two cans and $5.75 for three cans. Three special pickups of up to seven cubic yards per house will be held during the year with residents being notified by mail about a week ahead of the special pickup dates.

SALARY ORDINANCE — Held over final action until next meeting on an ordinance granting councilmen a $150 per month salary. Action was held over due to the absence of Mayor Dunphy. The council recently voted 3-2 to authorize the salary, but final adoption of the ordinance is still forthcoming.

ELECTION — Authorized the county to conduct the city's April 14 municipal election.

Child Neglect Case Continued

The case of a 30-year-old Bolinas woman accused of child neglect yesterday wascontinued for six months in Marin Municipal Court in order to observe the woman's conduct.

Dianna Horvath was told to return to court July 6.

She was arrested Dec. 22 after her 6-year-old son was hit by a car and officers found her three other children unattended in a house they said was cold and dirty.

Ordinance On Filling Is Studied

A proposed county ordinance to control filling and building on tidal waterways should apply only to coastal waters because the San Francisco Bay shoreline inside the Golden Gate is already controlled by the Bay Conservation and Development Commission.

This was the consensus of the Marin County Board of Supervisors, which reviewed the ordinance for two hours yesterday afternoon.

The ordinance, approved by 4 to 3 vote of the county planning commission on Dec. 8, was written to apply to all tidal waters both inside and outside the bay.

Chairman John F. McInnis and other supervisors said they are concerned that two sets of rules would then apply to development along the bay shorelines–the Marin ordinance and the BCDC rules.

'My inclination is that this should apply only to the ocean frontage, which is not covered by BCDC, and not to the bay,' said McInnis.

Peter R. Arrigoni Jr. and Louis H. Baar agreed.

The ordinance would apply to areas below 7.5 feet mean lower low water, and within 100 feet of that elevation line.

Michael Wornum wanted the ordinance to spell out specifically the need for public access to the waters in any shoreline development.

Supervisors and Planning Commissioner Margaret Azevedo differed on who should bear the burden of proof when a developer applies for shoreline fill or construction.

If a developer wants to build homes on the shoreline, how would he prove public benefit? asked Baar. If the development has no detrimental effect, that should be ample, he argued. This was the point stressed by Normand H. Traverso, executive manager of the Marin Property Owners Association, during planning commission hearings on the ordinance last month.

YOU cooler heads, on the other hand, might consider investing in Redwood Bank's 5% Growth Savings Bonds or 5% Current Income Savings Bonds.

A ten year guarantee of 5% interest may not give you gooseflesh, but there are duller things in the world.

CURRENT INCOME SAVINGS BONDS, issued for a minimum of $100, will get you an interest check in the mail regularly at the end of every quarter beginning three months after date of purchase. They may be redeemed then, or at the end of any subsequent three month period, with full interest earned to date.

GROWTH SAVINGS BONDS, issued for a minimum of $100, get the 5% annual interest rate added and compounded daily during the ten years to maturity. Interest is paid every day of the year, and interest is earned on interest. Redeemable, with interest earned to date, after three months or any subsequent three month period up to the full ten years, when your money will have earned a tidy sum.

Both kinds of bonds are F.D.I.C. insured to $20,000, and suitable for framing.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

Vitamin B12 Shots Keep Alive Victims Of Pernicious Anemia

VAN DELLEN

A monthly injection of vitamin B12 is the difference between life and death for most victims of pernicious anemia (PA). Many administer their own shots, just as diabetics give themselves insulin injections.

Vitamin B12 is the active substance in liver that stimulates the bone marrow to manufacture blood cells.

Only a minute amount is required. Formerly, at least one-half pound of liver had to be eaten daily to remain alive.

IT WAS NOT BAD the first few days, but after several weeks, even liver lovers found the treatment worse than the disease. Chemists came to the rescue by formulating a concentrated liver extract for hypodermic usage.

This was the standard treatment until vitamin B12 came along.

PERNICIOUS ANEMIA is now considered a form of vitamin B12 deficiency. The basic fault arises from failure of the stomach to secrete a factor that ensures absorption of the vitamin.

This is the main reason the remedy is seldom effective when taken orally. PA sufferers also lack hydrochloric acid in the stomach but this deficit has nothing to do with the absorption of vitamin B12.

PA develops slowly and the blood count may drop to 2 million before weakness, pallor, shortness of breath, and palpitation develop. Appetite wanes, weight is lost, and numbness of the hands and feet ensues.

UNLESS TREATMENT is given, there is a gradual degeneration of the spinal cord leading to paralysis and complete incapacity.

Years ago folic acid was found to raise the blood count but it failed to stop spinal cord degeneration. Liver and vitamin B12 prevent the degeneration and in many instances improve the spinal cord, provided the damage is not extensive.

ALTERING SEX

A reader writes: Do any surgeons in the United States perform the sex changing operation?

REPLY

Most urologists and gynecologists are acquainted with the procedures used in transsexualism and sex reassignment. It is also important to get clearance from the psychiatrist. Some men are crazy enough to think they are women and vice versa. Altering the appearance of the external sex organs via surgery and hormones is not the answer to their problem.

PELVIC CARCINOMA

Mrs. H. S. writes: Is cancer involving the reproductive organs curable through surgery?

REPLY

Yes. Many women have been cured of cancer of the cervix, uterus, or ovary. On the other hand, prostate gland malignancies are less amenable to surgery unless the lesion is small and is confined to the gland itself. Hormones are used with success in more advanced cases.

MENINGITIS FROM MICE

M. C. A. writes: What treatment is given mouse virus disease caught from household mice?

REPLY

There is no specific remedy for this disease which has the jawbreaking name, lymphocytic choriomeningitis. But there is no need for concern because most victims recover spontaneously.

MELANCHOLIA

D. I. writes: What treatment is given for involutional melancholia?

REPLY

The standard psychiatric treatment is given. This consists of discussion and tranquilizers. In severe cases, shock therapy is necessary.

"Now, make me a newspaper by tonight"

Tall order . . . since a complete newspaper such as the Independent-Journal is at once the most complex yet lowest-priced product that can be made in one day.

Every day a new "model" . . . delivered by nightfall. To do this job against the clock—

- our 18 reporters comb the county, observing, interviewing, phoning, writing, getting the facts for you.
- thousands of AP and UPI newsmen check the world for you, put its pulse on the wire.
- teletypes chatter some 120,000 words to us, from as close as Mill Valley, as far away as Capetown.
- rolls of paper, each 850 lbs., move in from Canada and the Northwest.
- electronic impulses turn into photographs on a machine—the world in black and white, caught in action.
- the managing editor watches for the big stories, gauging the importance of each, overseeing the editorial "construction" of the paper, from content to design.
- pressmen feed the giant press with ink and paper—a taste of what's to come.
- "Circulation" readies for the job of distributing the paper, via 700 newspaperboys, to two out of three homes in the county.
- experts set type for news, for ads—enough in one day to fill a good-sized book.
- the retail advertising staff, 10 strong, contacts almost every business in the county . . . planning campaigns, offering merchants professional service in copywriting, layout and merchandising.
- the city editor "feels" for the news on a hundred fronts, hands out assignments, shaping the news force to the shape of events.
- engravers work their chemical magic, placing print and picture on metal.
- the women's editor and staff of 5 molds food and fashions, social doings, meetings, school events, into a women's world.
- syndicates send in both national and world-wide features—columns, comics, cartoons.
- specialists "make up" the paper, designing every page of news and ads.
- the art department creates illustrations, layouts, designs, cartoons.
- photographers race the news throughout the county, clicking the visual happenings of Marin today.
- ink for the press arrives not in bottles but tank trucks.
- color plates and color inks are being readied for ads, special editions, covers—all to brighten your reading eye.
- sports "jump" in the typewriters of the sports department and Willie Mays leaps up into a headline.
- "Classified" is setting up the county's daily market place, and the phone rings with "wanted" and "for sale."
- headlines are being written against deadlines—and the tight confines of space.
- vital statistics are being compiled; weather and stock reports are coming in.
- the mechancial superintendent moves the copy through a maze of linotypes, electronic typesetters and the precise hands of men who literally know type up-side down.
- the library is digging up background data for stories, filing photos, micro-filming each edition of the newspaper.
- legal ads get eagle-eyed checking for accuracy.
- orders are coming in from the nation's advertising agencies with mats for advertisements—everything from autos to ant spray.
- issues become the tissue of editorials—the reasoned interpretation of events.
- proofreaders scan every line of news and advertising trying to hold errors to a minimum against the pressure of time.
- letters to the editor are being read for possible publication.
- the dispatch office is moving ads into production—checking size, type, mats, insertion dates, art, photos—a hundred elements.
- our national representatives are meeting with ad agencies and advertisers in New York, Detroit, Chicago—a dozen cities—telling them about Marin County and its newspaper.
- special contributors' columns on fishing, baseball and many others are being processed.
- Marin Magazine is being dummied; stories developed for the Saturday edition—picturing life in Marin.
- the business office moves against a mountain of financial and administrative detail.
- stereotypers cast the weighty cylinders for the big press—the final imprint of the news on metal.
- last minute news comes through and the front page changes under the expert fingers of typographers and the eye of the editor.

Marin Accepts Offer On Book Settlement

Marin County Board of Supervisors yesterday decided to accept a settlement with the nation's top book publishers which will net the county about $2800 in damages for overpayments charged on children's books since 1963.

County Counsel Douglas J. Maloney recommended that the county accept the offer by the book publishers to pay a total of $215,000 to all agencies in California for not giving the normal discounts on children's library books.

County Administrator Alan Bruce said his rough estimate is that Marin would be eligible for about $2800 of the$215,000 settlement.

The case started in 1968 when the federal government brought an anti-trust action against 18 book publishers, alleging that they had conspired to fix prices of the children's books at high and artificial levels.

In California Marin County led the list of public agencies that filed suit for damages. Marin has spent $1100 on the case so far, but all of this will be reimbursed, said Maloney.

Supervisors accepted the settlement offer on a motion by Louis H. Baar and a second by Peter R. Arrigoni Jr.

The Marin County Board of Supervisors also:

JAIL COMMISSARY– Approved the operation of a commissary in the county jail where candy, cigarettes and other supplies can be sold to inmates. Vending machines are used at present. County Auditor-Controller Michael Mitchell said profits from the commissary will go into the inmates revolving fund.

Living Cost Pay Hike In Next Payroll

About 950 county employees, who are members of the Marin County Employees Association, will bet 2.5 per cent cost-of-living increase in their paychecks beginning this month.

Marin County Board of Supervisors yesterday approved the cost of living raise to start immediately, on the recommendation of Auditor-Controller Michael Mitchell.

A contract signed between the Marin County Employees Association and county last year called for a 2.5 per cent raise, if the bueeauof Labor Statistics shows such a rise during the last six months of 1969. The Bureau's figures will be released late this month. Auditor-Controller Mitchell said he is certain the figure will show more than the 2.5 per cent increase, and would therefore prefer to include the increase in the January checks rather than wait until February and make adjustments retroactively.

The cost of living raise will total $115,000 for the 950 employees for this fescal year. The amount was included in the 1969-70 budget.

Guilty Plea To Marijuana Count

Larry Michael Roscoe 21 of Fairfax pleaded guildy yesterday in Marin Municipal Court to a charge of possessing marijuana in San Rafael Dec.2.

A similar charge against a co-defendent Ronald Alan Johnson 21 also of San Rafael was dismissed for lack of evidence.

Roscoe was told to appear in Superior Court Monday for setting of a sentencing date on the felony charge.

The two men were arrested in an illegally parked car on West Seaview Avenue in San Rafael.

Prison Officials Doubt Slayer,s Hiding Story

TRACY (UPI)—Convicted killer Leonard Maine insists he hid under a tarpaulin during the night and in a shed during the day. Prison officials don't believe him.

The convicted rapist-murderer eluded police dogs and guards for five days while hiding inside the grounds of the Deuel Vocational Institute.

When he came out of the cold temperatures to turn himself in Monday, he claimed to have been hiding only 200 yards from his prison cell. It was below freezing at night.

"The area Maine described as his hideout spot was thoroughly searched a number of times, and it is quite beyond our conception he could have been there without being discovered," Acting Associate Warden Jack Garner said.

Maine, 21, who is serving 10 years to life for second-degree murder, said he had no food and only one jar of water during the five-day escape attempt.

After his disappearance last Wednesday and extensive search failed to find a trace of him on the 700-acre area which has 200 buildings. Officials had speculated Maine might have become immobilized in the 25-degree temperatures.

They also considered the very slim possibility that Maine might have somehow gotten out of the grounds on one of the trucks that visit the prison.

Garner said there was no "definite evidence" that other prisoners aided Maine during his ordeal. He said if they had Maine is protecting them by claiming he did it by himself.

Garner said Maine is still in the prison hospital, but "appears to be in good shape, and we're keeping him in the hospital only as a precautionary measure."

Maine was convicted last year of the murder of Timothy Luce, and the rape and attempted murder of Luce's girl friend, Susan Bartolomei, who is still paralized from the attack.

Poverty War Meeting Series To Plan Year

The Marin County Economic Opportunity Council is reviewing plans and priorities for the coming program year in a series of six meetings at EOC centers throughout the county this week.

Plans for implementation of the proverty agency's goals will be considered at the meetings, according to Gail Theller, EOC program developer.

Beginning April 1, the EOC will initiate programs focusing on four of the most critical needs of low income persons in Marin County — jobs, housing, transportation and health services, Miss Theller said.

In the area of housing, the agency plans to survey what leased and public housing is available in the county, then decide how to make best use of what is available, she said. "In addition, the agency plans to provide assistance in organizing tenants' groups in public housing projects.

By the end of the program year (March 31, 1971), Miss Theller said the agency hopes to have enrolled 75 low income persons in job training programs and placed them in jobs. "Part of our manpower program will be to provide supplementary services such as child care, transportation and counseling to enable these people to complete their schooling," she added.

Miss Theller said the agency is working with the Marin Volunteer Bureau to establish a program of emergency transportation for low income people in the county.

A bimonthly group shopping trip to San Francisco discount stores is also planned as part of the transportation effort.

The health services program will include a continuation of existing pediatric and podiatry programs in Marin City, establishment of an emergency food program and assistance of Head Start parents' organizations in setting up a free lunch program in San Rafael schools.

Here's Ground Beef Soup To Warm Those Frosty Evenings In January

A soup as versatile as California beef soup should be within the repetoire of every busy homemaker and hostess. This quick-to-make beef soup has all the good flavor and aroma found in traditional soups that are simmered and simmered.

This ground meat soup provides the optimum advantages to a homemaker on the busiest night in the family circle. Its hearty beef balls floating in the broth make a wholesome foundation for a family dinner. A simple menu can be completed with marinated tomato slices on lettuce and cornbread. Dessert can be a beverage by serving hot chocolate with a dollop of whipped cream.

"Soup's on" will be a welcomed call at supper or midnight party with a south-of-the-border theme inspired by this soup based on the classic albondiga, a Mexican meatball soup. The Mexican theme can be developed by serving the soup in a gay-colored pottery tureen alongside matching soup bowls buffet-style. The party menu may include green salad mixed with ripe olives and sliced avocados, hot tortillas and chocolate mousse. This economical menu would make a Pinata Party special.

CALIFORNIA BEEF SOUP

- ⅛ pound ground beef (lean)
- ¾ cup soft bread crumbs
- ¼ cup water
- 1 egg
- ¼ cup minced onion
- 1¾ teaspoons salt
- ⅛ teaspoon black pepper
- ¾ cup thinly sliced onion
- 1 tablespoon butter or margarine
- 4 (10½-ounce) cans beef broth
- 3 cups water
- 1 (8-ounce) can tomato sauce
- 1 tablespoon chili powder

Mix beef, crumbs, water, egg, minced onion, 1¼ teaspoons salt and pepper together in mixing bowl. Shape into 1-inch meat balls. Saute sliced onion lightly in butter in Dutch oven. Add broth, water, tomato sauce, chili powder and remaining ½ teaspoon salt; bring to boil. Drop meat balls into soup; simmer until cooked, about 10 minutes. Makes 6 or more servings.

Change The Menu By Trying An African-American Dinner

African fare inspires new ideas for family dinners. From the wealth of African foods come many unusual dishes using familiar ingredients to add variety to your daily meals.

Ideal for the busy mother, African foods are quite simple in preparation, yet colorful and very tasty. Authentic African cookery is highly spiced with pilli-pilli (hot red pepper), ginger and curry. With only minor modifications, these foods can be adapted to your taste to become family favorites, offering a nice change of pace to intrigue lagging appetites.

Peanuts are a great favorite of Ghanians. Called groundnuts, they are used in many unique and delicious ways, as in this Groundnut Soup. This adaption is highlighted with the addition of beer, creating a delicate blend of flavors.

Favorite of Nigerians, Wolof Rice is the beef stew of Africa. Featuring okura (okra), which grows abundantly in Nigeria, and pilli-pilli, this adaptation takes on a new twist with the addition of beer. Used as the cooking liquid, beer enhances the flavors of the beef and vegetables with a subtle taste of its own.

Although these dishes have been adapted to American taste, they retain the seasoning of true Africa.

GROUNDNUT SOUP
(about 3 pounds)

- 1 chicken, cut into serving pieces
- 2 tablespoons butter or margarine
- 6 cups beer
- 2 medium yellow onions, trimmed and quartered
- 1 tablespoon salt
- ¼ teaspoon black pepper
- 1 cup peanut butter
- 1 can (6-ounce) tomato paste
- ¼ teaspoon crushed red peppers
- 2 cups carrots, cut into 1-inch pieces
- 1 package (10-ounce) frozen okra

In a Dutch oven or large saucepan, brown chicken in butter. Add beer, onions, salt and pepper. Cover and cook over low heat 45 minutes; or until chicken is tender. Remove chicken and set aside. Skim fat off surface of broth. Blend a small amount of broth into peanut butter until smooth. Blend peanut butter into chicken stock. Add tomato paste, red peppers and carrots. Cover and simmer 10 minutes longer, or until vegetables are tender. Remove chicken from bones; cut into 1-inch pieces. Return to soup and heat. Makes 8 1-cup servings.

WOLOF RICE

- 2 pounds round steak, cut into 1-inch pieces
- 2 tablespoons oil
- 1 large onion, sliced
- ½ cup green pepper, cut into 1-inch strips
- 1 large clove garlic, minced
- 1 cup beer
- ¼ cup tomato paste
- 2 teaspoons salt
- ¼ teaspoon crushed red peppers
- 1 package (10-ounce) frozen okra
- 2 large tomatoes, cut into wedges
- 3 cups hot, cooked rice

In a large skillet, brown beef cubes in oil. Add onion, green pepper and garlic; cook until vegetables are tender. Blend in beer, tomato paste, salt and red peppers. Cover and cook over low heat about 1 hour, or until beef is tender. Stir occasionally. Add okra and cook 10 minutes longer. Add tomatoes and heat. Serve over hot cooked rice. Makes 6 servings.

Fish Chowders

New Englanders are famous for their great fish chowders. In one such recipe, a little lemon is added for sprightliness of taste. And a bit of sugar — 1 teaspoon to 10 portions — goes into the cooking pot to blend the hearty flavors of the other foods.

Sugar Dessert

Since sugars satisfy the appetite without fully nourishing, they should be taken near the end of a meal, only after the eating of foods that contain protein, minerals and vitamins.

Hot Wash

Sauce Makes The Chicken Supreme

There are several new things about this easy and attractive chicken bake. The mayonnaise used in breading the chicken pieces gives it wonderful color and a little flavor that kind of teases the imagination. The elegant sauce supreme is just perfectly seasoned for the chicken — never overwhelming the delicate chicken flavor. And the tangy cling peach slices add that freshness and texture change that really places this among the top chicken recipes.

BAKED CHICKEN WITH SAUCE SUPREME

- 1 cup fine dry bread crumbs
- ½ teaspoon salt
- ¼ teaspoon pepper
- 1 fryer-broiler chicken (3-lbs.) cup up
- ½ cup mayonnaise

Sauce

- 2 tablespoons butter
- 2 tablespoons flour
- 1 teaspoon chicken stock base
- ¼ cup dry white wine or peach syrup
- 1 can (3-oz.) mushrooms
- 1 cup light cream
- 1 can (1-lb.) cling peach slices

Combine bread crumbs with salt and pepper. With a pastry brush, generously spread chicken pieces with mayonnaise. Roll in bread crumbs. Place chicken pieces on a shallow baking pan in a single layer. Bake in 375-degree (moderately hot) oven 50 minutes or until tender.

Sauce: Melt butter in skillet. Stir in flour and chicken stock base. Gradually stir in wine, mushroom liquid and cream. Cook and stir until thickened. Add mushrooms and drained peach slices. Serve hot over baked chicken.

Makes 4 servings.

Burgundy Beef Of France Is An American Favorite

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press

Each country has its favorite version of stew, but in recent years the French way of cooking beef in Burgundy wine has won its way into the repertoire of American cooks.

No wonder! The dish, although it calls for a goodly number of ingredients, is not difficult to put together. It's not lavishly expensive. And its flavor is so good it makes an excellent offering for company.

The latest American adaptation of Burgindy Beef tried in our kitchen makes life easier than usual for the cook. That's because frozen small whole onions are used. No peeling. Frozen mushrooms that come in a convenient package also go in as well as a little chopped parsley from the freezer.

Here's the recipe. But a couple of changes may be made, if you like. Before you brown the onions, you can sprinkle them with a teaspoon of sugar. And although this isn't traditional, you can add a quarter cup of dry sherry when you pour in the Burgundy.

What to serve with Burgundy Beef? Lots of crusty bread — French or sourdough. And a big salad of tossed greens. Dessert can be a simple fruit combination or something luxuriously sweet. Take your choice!

BURGUNDY BEEF

- 4 tablespoons butter
- 3 pounds boneless beef rump, cut in 1½-inch cubes
- ¼ cup brandy
- 2 beef bouillon cubes dissolved in 1 cup boiling water
- 1½ cups red Burgundy wine
- 1 teaspoon salt
- ¼ teaspoon pepper
- 1 bay leaf
- ½ teaspoon dry crushed thyme
- 2 tablespoons frozen chopped parsley
- 2 strips bacon, diced
- 1 bag (1 pound, 4 ounces) frozen small whole onions
- 1 package (6 ounces) frozen whole mushrooms

In a large skillet in the hot butter, brown beef well on all sides.

In a small saucepan heat brandy until warm; with a match, light the brandy and pour flaming over beef; shake skillet until flame dies.

Transfer beef and pan juices to a casserole that has a tight fitting lid. Add bouillon, wine, salt, pepper, bay leaf, thyme and parsley. Cover tightly with foil (to collect droplets of steam), then cover with lid and cook in a preheated 350-degree oven until beef is tender — about 2 hours.

About 10 minutes before beef is done, cook bacon in skillet; add onions and mushrooms (not defrosted). Cover and cook over medium heat, stirring several times, until vegetables are thawed and tender — about 5 minutes. Uncover and continue cooking until liquid has evaporated and vegetables are lightly browned. Add to beef mixture. If you like, you may sprinkle the beef dish with additional chopped parsley.

Makes 6 to 8 servings.

World Series Of Folk Sports At Cow Palace

Tom Rooney is a master showman. He also is a super salesman. Fishing, boating, camping, hunting and travel people literally line up for exhibit space at his Sports and Boat Show.

It wasn't always that way. When Rooney opened his first show in San Francisco Civic Auditorium 28 years ago, skeptical exhibitors and a disinterested public prompted him to say: "There is nothing sadder than an exhibit hall without people."

BUR ROONEY was convinced of the soundness of his basic idea that outdoor recreational products put in an attractive showcase would lure thousands of customers through the turnstiles. He was just ahead of the time a quarter of a century ago and the public didn't have enough leisure time to enjoy the products he packaged.

A year ago 382,000 persons visited Rooney's show in the Cow Palace during its 10-day run. This year, at the 28th renewal of the show Jan. 9-18, Rooney believes 400,000 will crowd the Cow Palace over the 10 day span.

"IT IS the World Series of Folk Sports," says Rooney. "It is a toy shop for children eager to explore the wonders of the outdoors. It beats juvenile delinquency."

One of the features of Rooney's original show was a Huck Finn casting pool.

"YOUNGSTERS LOVE it," said Rooney. "There always will be a Huck Finn pool in the show. Today's fishermen include thousands upon thousands of youngsters who wet their first line in our Huck Finn pool."

Among the boat-related exhibits at this year's show is a fascinating display of knots as tied by sailors in the days of the old sailing ships.

IN THE camping exhibit area is a booth featuring a revolutionary new match that is not affected by rain, snow or accidental dunking in sea or surf.

For surfing fans the world's first power-driven surfboard, capable of 10 mph on lakes and rivers, will be on display.

THERE IS a new ski vehicle for the non-skier in the snow exhibit area. It has a leather seat, handle-bar, and adjustable pre-mounted foot ski bindings that will fit any size ski boot. "With it anyone can safely enjoy advanced slopes in a few minutes," according to Jean-Claude Killy, Olympic triple gold medal winner.

"ALL THAT'S new in boats, fishing, camping, hunting, travel and related outdoor recreations will be on display," said Rooney who has come a long, long way with his boat and sports show in 28 years.

"We have 550 exhibits now. We've run out of room at the Cow Palace but we've been promised two new pavilions for next year."

Foreman Knocks Out Polite Heavyweight

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — George Foreman of Houston knocked out Charlie Polite of Holyoke, Mass., to win his 12th knockout in 14 victories last night in Sam Houston Coliseum.

Foreman, the 217-pound Olympic champion used his diamond punch to floor Polite, 212, in the fourth round of their scheduled 10-round heavyweight bout.

Foreman almost quit too soon in the third round when he started back to his corner after apparently thinking the bell had rung.

Polite reminded him it wasn't over yet by hitting him twice. Foreman responded by unlashround of their 10-rounder.

Feather weight Kenny Weldon knocked out veteran Nat Jackson in the fourth also. Weldon, 23 and weighing 130 pounds, from Galena Park, appeared to be the stronger fighter than the 38-year-old Jackson, The New Orleans fighter who weighed in at 134.

AFFIDAVIT

EKARLIER Tuesday in Bilo Miss., it was revealed that an affidavit had been filed in federal court accusing famed baseball pitcher Jerome "Dizzy" Dean of placing $6,000 in bets for a wealthy Michigan businessman.

The affidavit said Dean, now a sportscaster, "placed bets for Howard Sober with three men known as Sammy, PJ and Wimpy at the 406 Club" in Biloxi.

On New Year's Day Dean's Las Vegas hotel room was searched by agents during a series of raids in a number of cities. He was not arrested.

Fourteen persons were taken into custody in the raids based partly on information supplied by Dean, according to James H. Brickley, U.S. attorney for eastern Michigan.

Dean, who spends his winters in Phoenix, Ariz., said there Tuesday night he could not make any statement because "the federal government has asked me not to comment or make any statement regarding the investigation at this time."

Montgomery Turns Back Petaluma

The big showdown or at least one of them came in the North Bay I basketball league yesterday when Montgomery of Santa Rosa turned back a tough Petaluma team,67-63, to take over undisputed loop leadership.

That turn of events came about when Vallejo, a pre-season also-ran dumped Santa Rosa, one of the three favorites last night.

Petaluma, with 6-4 veteran Ross Goree and center Joe Rodola combining for43points,put up a stiff battle but it wasn't quite enough to overhaul the Vikings perennial North Bay I champs.

Goree scored 22 points and Rondola had 21 for the Trajans, now 5-5 on the season.

In other action, Rancho Cotate with 6 foot 7 Ron Seiler hobbled by an injured ankle,lost to Piner of Santa Rosa 64-55. Seiler still managed 12 points but Mike Stephens topped Rancho Cotate with 17 points.

Warriors To Host Knicks

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — "We're slowly putting it together," Coach George Lee says of his San Francisco Warriors.

They've won their past two National Basketball Association games and have Nate Thurmond, Jerry Lucas and Jeff Mullins all going in high gear at the same time.

This is a good time for the Warriors to have confidence. They meet the New York Knicks here tonight and again on Friday night. There's a game at San Diego in between.

New York has been winning its NBA games at a better than 3-out-of-4 pace, while the Warriors have been struggling to break even during the first half of the schedule.

After San Francisco beat Detroit here 118-102 Monday night, Pistons Coach Bill Van Breda Kolff gave the reason in three words: "Too much Nate." Thurmond led scoring with 29, had 16 rebounds and blocked a dozen shots.

Lucas, who returned last week from a six-week layoff because of a broken hand, also had 16 rebounds and hit on some of his outside bombs to show his shooting touch is returning.

"Now he's getting back into things," said Lee, who went on to Mullins:

"Did you see the way Jeff passed when he was covered? Twenty-five points and 10 assists—what a night!"

The Warriors today found themselves in a tie with Los Angeles for second place in the Western Division, six games behind Atlanta, by virtue of the Lakers' 105-100 loss to Chicago Tuesday.

BOWLING TIPS

By DON CARTER

Nearly every bowler has a natural tendency to let his arm turn to the left as he lets the ball go, instead of bringing it straight up, as illustrated. This will cause the ball to hit the headpin too solidly, or cross over to the "Brooklyn" side, unless it is corrected. Check your hand position as you complete your follow-through. Better still, have a teammate check it for you.

Bowl Manager Mike Curry Has Athletic Background

By RALPH CHATOIAN

What started out as a part time job to earn spending money has turned into a profession for Mike Curry of Novato.

The 28-year-old Curry is bowling manager at Country Club Bowl in San Rafael, quite a step up from being a porter, a job Mike took eight years ago to help pay school bills when he was a student at City College of San Francisco.

The oldest in a family of five boys and a girl, Mike was a three-sport letterman — basketball, football and baseball — at San Rafael High School, from where he was graduated in 1959. He attended College of Marin for one year, playing basketball and football, and then went to San Francisco City College for a year.

PART TIME

That's when he gave up school sports and took a part-time job at Country Club and became active in league bowling. He now bowls in two leagues, the 910 Classic on Tuesdays and the 670 Mixed Scratch with his wife, Jan, on Thursdays. He carries a 175 average.

He moved up from a porter to part-time desk man and then day manager before becoming bowling manager three years ago.

"When I started working here I didn't realize it would be a career at all," said Curry. "Then things progressed, and I was just lucky to move up."

In addition to his managing duties both days and evenings,

MIKE CURRY
Things progressed

Curry gives instructions to women bowlers during the days. He's also a P.R. (public relations) man, trying to keep all the bowlers happy with the way things are going.

Mike feels there are more women bowling now than past years, but the overall "bowling bloom" has leveled off the last few years. But he acknowledges bowling as a number one participant sport.

"Bowling seems to be getting more exposure now," Curry says, pointing out the popularity of bowling on television. "More people see it on TV now, and they come out to try it."

Curry doesn't confine his leisure time to just bowling, however, but tries to get in a game of golf now and then. He also likes duck hunting (in two trips this season he has come back with limits).

He's pretty enthused with his newest venture, the training of two hunting dogs. He's got a pair of German short hairs (non-hippy dogs?), three months old.

"It's amazing how fast these dogs learn," Curry beams. "Already I've got them heeling."

FREE TIME

Curry will have a little more free time to train his dogs, since he finished his six years active duty with the Coast Guard Dec. 27, and that called for weekend meetings once a month. He can't help but flash a smile when he tells you it was his last meeting. Working an approximate 60-hour week, Mike didn't have too much free time.

He's already getting in some advance work on a professional tourney scheduled March 14 at Country Club, involving the Western Bowling Association. "We should have some pretty big names in bowling at that tourney," exclaimed Mike.

A life long resident of San Rafael before moving to Novato, Mike belongs to a very sports-minded family. His father, Richard, still is an active official in the North Bay Officials Association, those fellows in striped shirts who work the contests involving Marin County high schools.

Vikings Picked By 12½ Points

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — Minnesota, which opened an 11-point favorite in betting Sunday on the Super Bowl football game, was quoted at 12½ points over Kansas City by bookmakers here last night.

A report claiming three top pro quarterbacks, including Kansas City's Len Dawson, would be questioned by a federal grand jury looking into an alleged nationwide gambling operation came too late to affect yesterday's odds, a bookmaker said.

North Carolina won the 1969 Atlantic Coast Conference basketball championship with a 12-2 record. The Tar Heels finished one game in front of South Carolina.

Seals To Go Against Tough Bruins Tonight

OAKLAND (AP)—The Boston Bruins, led by the National Hockey League's leading scorer, Bobby Orr, play in Oakland Coliseum at 8 o'clock tonight against the Oakland Seals whose coach admits his problems are making him feel old for his years.

Fred Glover, who had a birthday Monday, has in the Seals a club that has lost more games than any other in the NHL.

"I'm 42 now and I feel like 75," said Glover. "We've had lots and lots of problems. The only way we can lick them is with an all-out effort. Nothing will do it but a helluva lot of hard work . . . by everybody.

"The guy in the nets (Gary Smith) is doing a fantastic job. But he can't do it alone."

The Bruins, whose goal total tops the NHL, have 14 victories and four ties in 18 games with West Division clubs and are pushing the New York Rangers for the East Division lead.

Boston beat the Seals 6-0 and 8-3 in Boston and 4-2 here in previous meetings this season.

The Bruins' center, Derek Sanderson, is out with a leg injury, and the Seals' veteran center, Earl Ingarfield, is sidelined with a charley horse.

Steve Owens of Oklahoma led the nation's collegians in rushing in 1969 with 1,523 yards. He scored 23 touchdowns and led the nation in scoring with 138 points.

Edith Head's First Designs For Non-Hollywood Women

By ANN HENCKEN

NEW YORK (AP) — Edith Head, Hollywood Academy Award winning costume designer, has shown her first line of clothes for the American woman.

Miss Head, who has dressed stars in over 1,000 movies, adapted the new line from clothes she created for "Airport."

WEARING AN orange brocade dress and jacket, she greeted guests for a dinner at the Pavilion Monday for the New York Couture Business Council, Inc. fashion showings. Her skirt was about three inches above the ankle.

"Is it a midi?" she was asked. "It can't make up its mind," she answered, holding on to her purse, an old hand warmer, once filled with coals on winter nights.

Labeled the "Airport Look," her new line is made from Hystron Fibers, Inc.'s Trivera, a polyester. It is wrinkle-free and able to take on the qualities of fabrics like wool, silk or linen.

MISS HEAD'S current movie project is designing Mae West's clothes for the movie "Myra Breckinridge." But so far, she's enthusiastic about doing clothes for the public.

"I'm hooked," she says. "In the past, in movies, the director could say a dress was great but not right. An actress could say, 'I hate it.'" But now I can pick what I want women to wear."

Another of the day's events for the Couture Business Council's National Press Week was a Vogue-Butterick Pattern Company fashion show of 1970s silhouettes.

FOR THE ESTIMATED 44 million home sewers in the country the newest styles from designers such as Donald Brooks, Emanuel Ungaro, Fabiani and Mary Quant were presented to a blaring rock music beat.

Models fairly danced on stage to show off the "red plus" separates look, the "mauve message" and the oriental "chinoiserie" feeling in sew-it-yourself designs. A group called "The Peasantries" featured dresses that were bibed, smocked, posy-printed—spilling flowers and ribbons for a tousled gypsy look. One cape was fashioned from row on row of embroidered ribbons.

HELEN HELP US!

Emergency 'Block Mothers' Can Be Organized Through Local P-TA

DEAR HELEN:

A friend from Phoenix wrote to me about "Emergency Mothers." Members of this group display a big red "E" in their windows and children know that if they get into trouble and need help they can go to that house for protection.

She says that since the club was formed, there have been no problems with molesters.

I have never heard of such a group in my town and wonder how to start one. — A MOTHER

DEAR MOTHER:

For five years now my front window has carried a bright red and blue "Block Parent" sign. On the back of the sign are listed emergency telephone numbers (fire and police department, physician, ambulance, school) and the names of radio stations in the emergency broadcasting system.

At school, children learn that "Block Parent" means "help in a hurry" and they may turn to this house if any sort of danger threatens. Possibly because the signs are so prevalent in our area, they are seldom needed — though we volunteers bandage our share of skinned elbows and knees.

How do you start such a group in your town? Through the P-TA. Bring it up at your next meeting and I think you'll find a lot of backers — H.

DEAR HELEN:

For many years I felt I had outgrown the man I married. I had a college education, he didn't. I loved art and literature. He liked bowling and poker. I was ashamed of him, and showed it. I couldn't see what others saw so clearly. He is a good, honest, successful man that almost any woman might covet. One did.

While I was compensating (with much activity in bridge clubs, civic groups etc.) for my dull marriage, my lonely husband found a woman who appreciated him.

He fell in love, but he remained true to his family. He's with us, but he'd rather be with her, and I can't blame him. Until it was too late, I never realized how much I had, and how shallow I was.

I'm trying every day to win that second chance. In the process I'm discovering a man I never really bothered to know.

Tell me, Helen, can 15 years of snobbery be forgiven? — NEVER THE SAME

DEAR NTS:

Your husband thinks the marriage is worth saving or he wouldn't stay with it. If you both try as you've never tried before, the next 15 years may be the best of your lives. — H.

DEAR HELEN:

I think my husband was rude. He thinks our friends were thoughtless. What do you think?

We invited these people over for dinner. They live an hour's drive away, in New York City. They called that morning to say their car was dead. I said my husband would pick them up, as the bus service is very slow.

Along about 9:30 my husband (knowing he had two hours of driving ahead) showed pretty strongly that he hoped they'd cut the visit short. I was embarrassed. He says if people don't have any more consideration than that they should be nudged. — POLITENESS AT ANY PRICE.

DEAR PAAP:

Right was on your husband's side, but maybe he could have been more tactful—like with a yawn instead of a groan.—H.

This column is dedicated to family living, so if you're having kid trouble or just plain trouble, let Helen help you. Address Helen Bottel in care of Independent-Journal.

USDA Tells Changes In Program

The United States Department of Agriculture has announced amendments to its voluntary egg products inspection program.

The amendments, effective Feb. 1, specify additional pasteurization requirements for a variety of egg products and establish procedures to prevent possible contamination of egg products during processing and packaging.

All egg products processed under USDA's inspection program are required to be pasteurized. Previously the regulations specified pasteurization temperature and holding time for whole eggs, but provided for equivalent results in pasteurizing other egg products. The updated requirements now include specific minimum pasteurizing temperatures and holding times for other egg products.

For dried egg whites that are required to be heat-treated, the updated regulations now specify minimum temperatures and holding times. In addition, there are requriements for facilities used in such heat treatment.

The voluntary egg products inspection service is provided by USDA's Consumer and Marketing Service under authority of the Agricultural Marketing Act. Users of the service pay a fee to reimburse USDA for its costs.

Technical Action Worth Some Study

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. I'm not a market novice, yet I'm ill-informed on the subject of "technical action." What, for example, is the "point-and-figure method" which I'm told is quite helpful in timing the purchase and sale of stocks? — C. W.

A. The point - and - figure method of charting the price movement of a stock, to fix a suitable time for its purchase or sale, was introduced in 1907 by The Magazine of Wall Street. Richard Wyckoff, the magazine's founder, originated the concept. The use of his theories in stock speculation was the subject of a book he wrote (now out of print) which attracted a wide following of traders and investors.

Even today, professionals on Wall Street continue to use the point-and-figure method to select stocks that appear ready to move and to calculate the extent of move, whether up or down.

A point-and-figure chart is easy to construct as the only figures posted are the successive daily prices of the stock, fractions omitted, with the up or down trend indicated by the symbols X or O. There are no time-consuming mathematical computations.

I regret that space limitations prevent my giving you more detailed help on constructing such a chart and interpreting the technical action it depicts.

I can, however, refer you to The Magazine of Wall Street for Oct. 25, 1969, which carried a clearly written, amply illustrated article on the point-and-figure method.

If you seriously desire to learn more about using technical action for better timing of your market transactions I suggest that you visit the financial department in your public library for further information and ask your broker for whatever reference material he has available.

You might be interested to know that the point-and-figure method was launched only a decade after the Dow Industrial Average which was also formulated to measure the market's technical action.

IT&T Forecasts Sales Increase

NEW YORK (BW) — International Telephone and Telegraph Corp. chairman and president Harold S. Geneen has said that ITT expects "a strong increase in sales in 1970" as a result of its broadened base both in the United States and abroad.

Geneen said that reported consolidated sales and revenues for 1969 will amount to approximately $5 billion, compared with $4.1 billion as reported last year when the company ranked as the 11th largest U.S. industrial corporation. In 1970, he added, sales should reach approximately $6 billion.

This increase, he said, is a result of the company's present wide distribution of sales.

Single Campus Plans Studied By Trustees

Preliminary plans and drawings for the one-campus plan were shown the Bolinas-Stinson School District board last night by architect Richard Borgstrom.

The plans are for expanding Bolinas School and providing space for classes now taught at Stinson Beach School.

The board agreed to hold a series of special meetings on the plans so the staff and public can discuss them with the architect. The plans also will be discussed at the next regular board meeting Jan. 20, reported Supt. Clarence B. Larison.

The board was told that since the burning ban started Jan. 1, the district now will get weekly garbage pickups from Henry's Service of Stinson Beach.

The board and audience discussed next Monday's meeting of the Tamalapais High School District board at Bolinas school to discuss district bussing, and agreed Bolinas board members will attend to meet with the Tamalpais board.

The audience recommended car pools and other means to continue the boycott of Tamalpais buses, started Monday wehen a fare system went into effect.

The extent of the bus boycott could not be gauged this morning, but Tamalpais High School reported west Marin students weeere in school on time. At Sir Francis Drake High School, a few students were reported tardy on failing to get rides in from San Geronimo Valley, where school buses are also being boycotted.

The board also heard a report last night by teacher Alvin H. Boyer on his seventh and eighth grade program, but took no action on his request for more teacher aides.

Tenants Ready Noisy Protest

BERKELEY (UPI)—Sheriff's deputies better have cotton in their ears when they come to evict anyone, the Berkeley Tenants Union warned Tuesday.

Members of the union gave a demonstration of a loud horn which let loose with a long, whining blast for about 15 minutes.

"When we get word of an unfair eviction, we will sound blasts in the neighborhood where it is occuring," said Bruce Gilbert, 22, the union organizer.

"That means everyone should come running as fast as possible and do whatever possible to stop the exploitation of our neighbors."

Two families were evicted Monday while union members stood by with picket signs. They had refused to pay their December rents until certain repairs were made to their apartments.

Approval Reluctant For Creamery Tank

The Petaluma Planning Connission last night reluctantly approved installation of a 54-foot storage tank for the Petaluma Cooperative Creamery at Upham Street and Western Avenue.

Andy Anderson, assistant planner, said no height limits were listed for industrial zones and that the commission has no choice but to approve the installation.

Connission members said they felt a tall structure would not blend with a residential neighborhood.

'Miniskirt Case' Shows Teacher Dismissal Method

By ERYCE W. ANDERSON

Newspaper stories on Dec. 30 reported that a California appellate court had upheld the dismissal of a Contra Costa County high school teacher who wore a green miniskirt to school on St. Patrick's Day.

This was true as far as it went. The court ruling, however, had nothing to do with the green miniskirt — which was not even mentioned in the decision. Rather, it charted a little more clearly how a school board can dismiss a "probationary" teacher, if willing to go to court to do it.

NANCY McGLONE, who got her picture in the papers by appearing in the green miniskirt at Pacifica High School on St. Patrick's Day in 1967, was then in her first year of teaching in Mount Diablo Unified School District. In the language of the law, a California public school teacher is "probationary" until he or she is rehired for the fourth year in a district.

Five days before "green miniskirt day," Supt. James L. Merrihew had notified Mrs. McGlone she would not be re-employed for the 1967-68 school year. She had demanded a hearing.

The hearing, before an officer of the California Office of Administrative Procedure, consumed nine days in April (during which, of course, Mrs. McGlone had to be excused from her teaching duties to attend). The superintendent had listed 20 grounds for not re-employing the "probationary" teacher. The hearing officer, reporting June 16, found seven of them substantiated, but concluded these did not constitute sufficient cause for dismissal.

THE MOUNT DIABLO Unified School District board on June 27 voted to make its own decision and requested copies of the hearing transcript (a bulky affair, since it contained nine days of testimony). After reviewing the transcript, the board on Oct. 24 concluded that 13 of the 20 causes for dismissal were substantiated, and voted 4-to-1 to uphold the dismissal of Mrs. McGlone.

The teacher then brought suit against the district, joined by American Federation of Teachers Local 866, of which she was a member.

Contra Costa County Superior Court heard the case and ruled the school board had acted properly and dismissal should stand. Mrs. McGlone and the union carried an appeal to the First District Court of Appeals. It was this court that on Dec. 29, 1969, ruled against the "miniskirt teacher."

IT REVIEWED the 13 causes for dismissal which the board had found proved. They included failing to appear for assigned duties, permitting an outside speaker in class without the principal's permission, not notifying a student or his parents of his failure, not taking attendance roll or reporting absences, leaving class unattended, and permitting student strike notices to be posted on the classroom bulletin board.

They also included appearing at a football game to supervise the rooting section in Capri pants, a violation of the school's dress code for girls — but nothing about the green miniskirt.

Mrs. McGlone and the union based their appeal on contention that none of these related "to the welfare of the schools and the pupils thereof," as required by the "instant tenure" provisions of Section 13443 of the California Education Code for dismissal of a "probationary" teacher.

THE APPELLATE COURT, in an opinion written by Judge James R. Agee, held the causes "had been proven clearly to relate to the welfare of Pacifica High School and its pupils." It cited a California Supreme Court decision in a similar case which said it was necessary only for the court to find such causes "can reasonably be said to relate" to the welfare of the schools and pupils.

This was the same court that a few months earlier had overturned the dismissal of James C. Ward, a probationary teacher in Fremont Unified School District, on the technicality that his notice of dismissal was withdrawn until after the legal deadline upon issuance of a court writ. Finding no such technicality in the McGlone case, it upheld the board.

Thus, if a school board makes no technical legal bumble in the process, it may in the course of two years of court hearings get rid of a "probationary" teacher.

176 Species Observed In Annual Bird Count

More than 42,000 birds were spotted in the fourth annual Drake's Bay Christmas Bird Count sponsored by the Point Reyes Bird Observatory on Dec. 27.

According to Jack Guggolz, compiler for the observatory, 176 species of birds were seen in a 15-mile diameter circle including Olema, the Point Reyes National Seashore headquarters, Limantour Bay and the northern edge of Bolinas.

Marin will rank fourth or fifth for its species tallied out of 850 Christmas counts conducted across the nation by National Audubon Society, Guggolz estimated.

The most unusual bird observed was a Cattle Egret in the Olema marsh, Guggolz said. It was the first of its type spotted in the Bay Area since the species flew from its homeland in Africa to South America 15 or 20 years ago, he explained. The bird later migrated to the eastern and southern coasts of the United States and has been gradually moving west.

Over a thousand Red Cross bills, a much larger number than usually seen, were spotted while migrating south, Guggolz added.

A Tree Sparrow, a bird from the Rocky Mountain and Great Plains area — also not usually seen here — was observed in the count. Another unusual bird seen according to Guggolz, was a White Throated Sparrow from the east.

Novato Park Spending Is Proposed

A capital improvement program for parks for the coming fiscal year has been outlined by the Novato Parks and Recreation Commission.

"These items will be discussed and evaluated for the next two or three months before we submit them to the city council," said Edward W. Adams, parks and recreation director, after Monday's commission meeting.

Included in the possible improvements were a picnic area for Novato Creek Park; increasing the deck area at the swim pool at Novato High School; construction of a tot play area behind the Community House; new toilet facilities at Lions Park and improvement of the baseball diamonds at Olive and Marion schools.

These items will be placed in the regular budget and not be included in any proposed bond issue, Adams said.

The Novato Parks and Recreation Commission also:

PIONEER MEMORIAL PARK — Heard a report from Adams that work on the spray pool should begin within a week. He said that plans for the second phase of park development should be started soon by Ribera and Sue, landscape architects. The city has $10,000 budgeted for this, Adams said.

CHAIRMAN — Named James F. McConnell as chairman and Ferris Morse as vice chairman of the commission.

ATTENDANCE — Received a report from Adams that 18,774 persons had attended recreation activities in December, an increase of 2,625 over December of 1968.

Tiburon Sewer Plant Job Begins

The first phase of a construction program aimed at converting the Tiburon Sanitary District's sewage treatment facilities to a secondary treatment capability has been approved by the district board, Secretary Robert A. Sterling reported.

Sterling said the $8,500 construction project would upgrade existing treatment facilities but that a full secondary treatment system was still some years away.

The program, he explained, was approved by the board Monday night in anticipation of more stringent water pollution controls by the Bay Area Regional Water Quality Control District.

INCOME TAX FACTS

By PETER J. WIKEL

Wikel

Every taxpayer is entitled to one personal exemption which means that he or she can make $600 tax free.

If you are over 65 years of age, you are entitled to two personal exemptions and can make $1,200 tax free. If you are blind, you are entitled to an additional personal exemption of $600. This means that if you are under 65 years of age and blind, you can make $1,200 and if you are over 65 years of age and blind, you can make $1,800 tax free.

No one is entitled to use another person's personal exemption.

DEPENDENCY RULES

You cannot file a joint return with your spouse if your spouse is claimed as a dependent on any other taxpayer's return.

You are entitled to the dependency exemption for certain dependents, and under certain circumstances you may claim the dependency exemption for dependents who also filed their personal income tax returns and claim their personal exemptions on these income tax returns.

If your son or daughter was married in 1969, you may be able to claim him or her as a dependent on your 1969 income tax returns, and the newlyweds may get their own deduction, too. Certain conditions must be met:

The newlyweds must not file a joint return for 1969. If they do, then the deduction for you is lost. If they have already filed a joint return they can file amended separate returns if they do so before April 15, 1970.

After that date, they cannot file separate returns if a joint return was previously filed.

SUPPORT REQUIREMENT

You must have furnished over half the cost of your child's support for 1969, but the child does not have to have lived with you at any time during the year. Your child's gross income must not have been more than $600 in 1969, unless he or she was a student for five months or more, or was under 19 years old on Dec. 31, 1969, in which case the income test does not apply. Remember that in California half of what your child's new spouse earns after the wedding is considered income of your child.

If your child meets all the tests for dependency, then you should claim him or her on your tax return.

COUPLE'S RETURN

The couple should file separate returns, each claiming his or her own exemption. In California it does not matter if one spouse had no income, for under community property rules, income received after marriage can be divided between the two.

This tax saving plan will save you anywhere from zero to $462 depending on your tax bracket. Remember that the first and most important thing to do is to make sure that your child does not file a joint return with the new spouse.

Sounding Board To Discuss Fares For School Buses

The new fare system for bus transportation to Tamalpais and Sir Francis Drake high schools from West Marin and the San Geronimo Valley will be discussed at 9 a.m. tomorrow on radio KTIM's Sounding Board.

Panelists will be David D. Ring, chairman of the Tamalpais High School District board transportation committee; Mrs. Lawrence T. Yamamoto, a parent from Muir Beach; Frank A. Cassou, director of business services for the Tam district, and Edward Z. Lewis, president of the Bolinas-Stinson Beach School District board.

Questions will be accepted for the live broadcast tomorrow. The program, moderated by Kitty Oppenheimer, will be repeated on tape at 10:05 a.m. Sunday.

Program Ideas Will Be Aired On Show

Format ideas for programs on KTIM will be discussed on Ernest L. Kettenhofen's talk show Thursday from 1 to 2 p.m. by Hugh Turner, station president and general manager.

Listeners have been invited to telephone their suggestions during the show.

Ecumenical Recital Set Tuesday

The winter concert series at Dominican College of San Rafael will open with an ecumenical recital by mezzo-soprano Marietta Sedlock and pianist Ted M. Blair at 8 p.m. Tuesday in Angelico Hall.

The program will include sacred songs from world religions, beginning with Hinduism and the vedic hymns of Gustav Holst. Catholicism is represented by the aria "Inflammatus et Accensus" by Dvorak, and protestantism with Cantata No. 35 "Geist und Seele Wird Verwirret" by J. S. Bach. Bloch's Judaic Psalms Nos. 22 and 114 will conclude the program.

Marietta Sedlock holds master's and doctorate degrees in music from Northwestern University and has appeared as soloist with many midwestern symphony orchestra and choral groups. She has been a soloist with the San Francisco Bach Choir, Choral Union at Stanford University and other Bay Area musical organizations.

Blair, director of graduate music studies at Dominican College, earned his doctorate in music from the University of Iowa. He was on the faculty of the University of Redlands before coming to San Rafael.

Jail Sentence Set For Stables Theft

Benjamin Ray Grodhaus, 27, of Palo Alto, was sentenced to three months in jail Monday by Judge Joseph G. Wilson of Marin Superior Court for the burglary of a Novato riding academy Nov. 26.

Grodhaus had earlier admitted taking more than $1,300 worth of saddles and other riding gear from the stables. He was arrested when he was seen trying to pawn two saddles in San Francisco.

Civilian Airport Forecast

Development of a major regional civilian airport through joint civilian-military use of control facilities at Hamilton Air Force Base was envisioned today by Rep. Don H. Clausen, R-First District.

Congressman Clausen, meeting with a group of Marin County leaders at Nero's Restaurant in Novato, described what he sees as necessary to bring the project to fruition.

It would require installing another runway, on land adjacent to Hamilton, capable of handling large aircraft, the congressman said.

LAND-USE PLAN

Before seeking federal approval of such a project, he advised, Marin County should prepare a complete land-use plan, including how the necessary land for the new runway would be acquired, and impose strict zoning on surrounding lands.

It would be necessary to provide for buffering adjacent buildings against sound damage, said Clausen.

"Don't look for this to happen overnight," he warned. "It will take months or years to get the plans through."

Chairman John F. McInnis of the Marin County Board of Supervisors agreed: "This is no rush deal. We want to plan slowly and carefully."

AVIATION COMMISSION

He proposed that the county await word from Clausen as to a propitious time to start the plan, and said the board of supervisors then would turn the planning over to the county aviation commission.

Hebert M. Hanson of the aviation commission suggested public hearings should then be held to get local sentiment on the project. Clausen, agreeing, said if there was local opposition there would be no chance of federal approval.

An airport and airways control bill which already has passed the House should set the stage for the development, Clausen said.

Ferns grow wild almost everywhere. They flourish in Greenland and tropical rain forests, in moist crevices and sunny, open fields.

Hub Trustees Vote Urban Plan Funds

The San Anselmo School District board last night voted to contribute up to $1,500 toward the city's urban planning study to get more detailed planning information about schools.

The money would be matched two to one by federal funds up to $3000 reported Supt. Stephen L. Parodi.

Expansion of the study by consultant firm Williams and Mocine would produce information in several areas Parodi said: need for additional facilities, coordination with the parks and recreation department on use of facilities analysis of the schools' organization, updating of a 1966 staff planning report and information about taxes and bond elections.

The board heard curriculum reports on special education, the summer school program and the Miller-Unruh reading program.

Special education programs, district psychologist William B. Emerson said, include county-run programs for the physically handicapped and mentally retarded and programs run by the district for gifted children and the educationally hadicapped.

In the reading program for first through third graders director of instruction Albert H. Nelson told the board the district has five reading specialists. Their salary is largely repaid by state funds. Last year the district paid out $53,124 and state compensation totaled $46,975.

If summer school is held this year Parodi said it probably will be from June 16 to July 17. The board made no decision on summer school last night, however.

The San Anselmo School District board also:

GIFTS–Accepted a gift of $282 from the Red Hill School Parents Club for books for the school library and a gift of $60 from San Anselmo American Legion Post 179 for basketball uniforms.

RESIGNATION–Accepted the resignation of kindergarten teacher Elaine Heller for personal reasons.

BUS–Discussed a replacement for a 1953 bus but took no action. A transit-type bus would cost some $25,000 Parodi said and a conventional bus with five to ten fewer seats would cost $11,000 to $12,000 through state purchasing.

Reed Board Approves Report Card Changes

page 23 Reed Board

Months of frequently bitter argument on the type of report card system to be used in the Reed School District lost much heat last night as the District Board calmly implemented a new card form.

There was little discussion on the form, which for third through eighth grades requires letter grades for all academic and elective subjects, check list evaluations of student skills, achievement levels and a social conduct evaluation, and for primary grades a system indicating whether work is satisfactory, space for comments and a social conduct evaluation.

However, some parents protested the lack of space on any form to report absence and tardiness.

Willis C. Bohn, a Tiburon parent, contended some parents do not know when their child is absent or tardy. He demanded it be included on report cards.

Supt. Robert B. Gaw said it had been omitted because of the time involved in accounting. He said parents were routinely notified if a child is not at school.

A few parents contested that statement, reporting they had not been notified, and Bohn persisted in his demands for the reporting.

'What good will it do after nine weeks for a parent to find out?' Gaw asked. 'It's nonsense. You should know then (at the time of the absence),' he declared.

Teachers, who have opposed parts of the new system, made a last ditch attempt to block implementation.

Tom Clisham, team leader of the humanities staff at Del Mar School, asked that his teachers be relieved of grading in English composition in the sixth, seventh and eighth grades.

The present system of evaluation, he contended, is superior to letter grades, although the latter is easier.

Allen West, representing the Reed District Teachers Association, asked that implementation be delayed to give more time to meet and confer with board negotiators.

William Schisler, of Local 1985 of the American Federation of Teachers, which he said was formed because of 'this board,' accused the board of not negotiating in good faith, in direct violation of the Winton Act.

'I think we have acted in good faith,' Trustee Thomas S. Price maintained. Unfortunately we could not come to a compromise.'

The board ignored the teacher and parent requests and Trustees Gordon C. Wright, James Richwagen and Kenneth G. Wells voted in favor of the motion. Chairman Leo Souza disented, and Price abstained, though he did not explain why.

Following the vote, Bohn began a tirade against the quality of education in general and the allegedly deteriorating national scene, but was ruled out of order by Souza.

An unidentified man criticized Bohn and urged the board not to let him have so much time. 'Bohn is working to the detriment of orderly community progress,' he said to rousing applause from the audience.

Peace Sign Triggers A Parents Ire

A red bookmark with gray peace symbols triggered a parental protest last night before the Reed School DISTRICT Board.

Peggy Banks mother of two reported her fourth grader had brought the bookmark home apparently a gift from the child's teacher.

"I'll teach my child politics" said Mrs. Banks firmly contending offeering the bookmark involved the same principles as teaching religion in schools.

Willis C. Bohn a Tiburon parent maintained the peace symbol was actually an ancient atheistic symbol and called it "an affront to my religious heritage."

Clifton W. Healey of Corte Madera however contended the symbol was actually from the ancient Greek pax.

The board took no action on Mrs. Banks' protest.

The Reed School District board also CLOSED MEETING–Held a 30-minute closed meeting to instruct the board's representatives on the negotiating panel.

BOARD ACTION–Heard a request from a parent that teachers be told not to say "Last night your parents forced the board" when teachers told children of changes in school policy.

SUMMER SCHOOL–Authorized staff to begin preliminary planning for summer school with a request for a firm recommendation on employment of a summer principal by the next meeting.

HILARITA–Asked for a complete report on refurbishing Reed School and two buildings in the Hilarity housing project including a sketch of how it will look and any expenses expected in the next fiscal year. The board also authorized trustee James Richwagen to negotiate with the City of Tiburon for payment of a fence installation the board believes is the city's responsibility.

FLOOD–Learned of flood damage silting and leaks at district schools in the last rains and that expenses were expected to be $150.

TRANSFER–Approved interdistrict transfer of three children of Anne Greenberg a new resident of the district to San Rafael schools.

DENTAL INSURANCE–Delayed until Jan. 20 a hearing on a Reed District Teachers Association request for dental insurance because the agent was unable to attend.

WEED CONTROL–Delayed for two weeks a decision on weed control because trustees questioned work specifications which included a requirement that firms bidding muar have been in business at least six years.

PERSONNEL–Approved hiring Victor W. Butler Jr. as director of business affairs at a salary of $14500.

Preliminary Proposal For Housing Approved

Preliminary plans for 56 units of low-cost housing for elderly persons at the Tiburon Wye and Knoll Road were approved last night by the Marin County Housing Authority.

The authority voted to support the project when it is considered at a public hearing Jan.21 before the Marin County Planning Commission.

Donald O. Stutsman, executive director of the authority, was authorized to apply for $22,400 in funds from the Housing Assistance Office in San Francisco to finance final architect's drawings and plans for the project.

The authority also set a 60-day time limit as the period before legal action is taken against tenants in public housing who are delinquent in their rents.

Chairman Philip S. Ehrlich Jr. abstained in the voting on the time limit, saying he felt the resolution should be presented to the Marin City Tenants Union for its approval before the authority took action.

The commissioners also agreed to seek written agreements with tenants on payment plans for back rent and to try to work out agreements with renters on welfare to have the delinquent money paid directly to the authority by the Marin County Department of Social Services.

The Marin County Housing Authority also:

AGREEMENT — Postponed until Jan. 21 action on a financial assistance agreement with the Marin City Community Services District.

REPORT — Heard a report from Commissioner Vera Sshultz on plans for the 1970 campaign for a low-cost housing measure which will appear on the county ballot.

California Trying To Clean Up Own Mess

(EDITOR'S NOTE: Twenty million persons now live in California, taxing the state's land, air and water to extremes. The problems of environment are being viewed with new concern in the Legislature. Here's a report.)

By BILL STALL

SACRAMENTO (AP) — In 1849, men bitten by gold fever began tearing up California in search of riches.

In 1970, the rush will be on in the California Legislature to repair damage done by 120 years of overdevelopment and to protect the rest against exploitation.

One official estimates that 700 bills dealing with the environment, suddenly the Cinderella of political issues, will be introduced during the session opening Monday. They'll range from a proposed ban on the internal combustion engine to ways of disposing of our garbage.

Sen. Nicholas C. Petris, D-Oakland, compares the situation to a football game in which our team is behind 20-0 and it's the fourth quarter.

Suddenly, he said, lawmakers and the public have become committed "to catching up with things we should have done a long time ago."

One admitted factor is that this is an election year and the voters will fill all 80 Assembly seats and 20 of the 40 Senate seats in November.

"It would be tough for a guy to have to vote against conservation," Petris said, adding, "the more positive way is to have a bill of your own."

The environment issues blossomed in the legislature last year.

The landmark was massive public support for a strong bill to protect San Francisco Bay against unplanned and indiscriminate filling to create artificial land. The pressure for a strong bill overwhelmed special interests which had lobbied against such a measure.

That was followed quickly by the Senate passage of Petris' measure to ban the internal combustion gasoline engine in new autos by the 1975 model year. Then came a bill outlawing most uses of DDT and DDD in California.

Both measures lost in the Assembly, but Petris is confident that his ban-the-gasoline-engine bill will succeed this year. And the state has, through administrative action, sharply curtailed uses of the hard pesticides DDT and DDD.

The environmental issue cuts across political lines and into the governor's office.

Gov. Ronald Reagan told his conference on California's changing environment last fall that "we intend to wage a vigorous war against pollution. And we intend to win that war for the sake of our environment and for the sake of the people of California."

Norman B. Livermore, the Republican governor's resources secretary, said the administration's program is being discussed now. He could disclose no specifics but said, "I think there's certainly increasing interest in this whole theme that land speculation should be more heavily taxed."

Land speculators who cash in for quick profits might be required to pay a higher tax, based on their profit, or be ordered to set aside a certain amount of the land for "open space" or parks, Livermore said.

Both Petris and Assembly Speaker Robert T. Monagan, R-Tracy, said the legislature must adjust its own organization to cope with the influx of environmental bills.

Monagan said he will name a special committee to develop guidelines for attacking the problem. Final action on environmental type legislation will be held up in the Assembly until the committee reports, probably about 60 days after the session opens, he said.

Petris said the Senate needs "structural change to reflect this new awareness on the part of the people and the legislators. "That might be the merging of some committees in the Senate under the banner of conservation.

"The title is very important," Petris added. "Conservation is more pointed than natural resources."

Monagan said he will propose a permanent committee to handle environmental issues, but that this might not occur until 1971.

While Californians devote their attention to pollution and the like, Monagan added, they must realize such programs will be costly.

"We have to recognize that this is an expensive thing to do," he said.

The Sierra Club, the state's leading conservation organization, is encouraged by the action on the environmental front in the legislation, but with a dash of skepticism.

"We're optimistic that at least the people who wouldn't pay us lip service before are doing so," said Michael McCloskey, the club's chief of operations. "The public is demanding action, but it still remains to be seen if the legislators are really going to be able to come to grips with the hard question before them."

McCloskey said, "The vested interests continue to be resourceful in defending their position."

Realignment Legislation Introduced

SACRAMENTO (AP) — A constitutional amendment to realign state senate and assembly districts to coincide with congressional districts was introduced yesterday by Assemblyman Victor V. Veysey, R-Brawley.

The amendment would require adding one more senate seat and two assembly seats during reapportionment next year. Both California houses would be increased or decreased every 10 years as California's congressional delegation increases or decreases.

Veysey said the bill would limit gerrymandering of districts and would substantially cut local election costs because every combination of districts in the present system requires printing a different ballot.

Plea Date Set In Weed Case

Kenneth James Pearson, 28, of Sausalito, was arraigned yesterday in Marin Municipal Court on a charge of possessing marijuana but another man arrester with him earlier in the day was not charged.

Released was Dennis Michael Burns, 28, of Mill Valley.

Pearson is to return to court Tuesday to enter a plea.

Nixon Adds Blacks To Storm Panel

SAN CLEMENTE, Calif. (AP) — Responding to complaints from civil rights leaders, President Nixon has added three Negroes to a governor's emergency council helping restore the Gulf Coast following Hurricane Camille.

Press Secretary Ronald L. Ziegler disclosed Tuesday that the President on New Year's Eve added, unannounced, three Negroes and two whites to the original all-white 10-member council. The action was taken after civil rights leaders and the American Friends Service Committee had alleged discrimination in the distribution of federal disaster relief funds.

"All I can say," Ziegler said, "is that the intent, of course, has been to dispense the funds in an equitable way and as far as I am aware this has been done."

The press spokesman also told newsmen Nixon has granted an additional $25 million to Mississippi and $7 million more to Louisiana to speed restoration of public facilities damaged or destroyed by the late summer hurricane.

Nixon returned with wife Pat and daughter Tricia to their San Clemente home Tuesday after a three-day stay at the Palm Springs desert estate of Walter H. Annenberg, U.S. ambassador to Britain.

On Tuesday afternoon, the President worked on the State of the Union message he will deliver to Congress on Jan. 22. Then he conferred with Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., sponsor of a bill he signed Jan. 1 creating a council on environmental quality.

There still was no word whether Nixon would return to Washington to celebrate his 57th birthday Friday, or remain here for a family party.

The chief executive also has promised while here to register as a California voter.

Ziegler told reporters Nixon has had a favorable public response to the establishment of a Western White House in his native state. The press secretary said this move has brought West and East closer together and given Westerners a feeling of greater participation in governmental affairs.

He also said the cost of establishing the second White House, on Coast Guard property adjoining the $350,000 Nixon estate, approximated $250,000. In addition, he said, $54,000 a year is paid to lease office buildings erected for Nixon's use and something less than $50,000 additional is spent annually in operating costs.

McCARTHY

tioned as a possible Democratic candidate for McCarthy's seat but yesterday told the I-J he did not expect to run for it this year.

His decision left only two Democrats known to be running for the seat, Michael R. Peevey of San Rafael and Richard M. Adams of Beelvedere. Peevey is a community development coordinator with the University of California Berkeley and Adams is an attorney.

McCarthy told the I-J that he had decided five months ago to retire "while walking on a beach in Oregon." Only his family and a handful of close friends including Shone, were told he said.

McCarthy had intended to disclose his decision at last night's gathering at Peacock Gap but inadvertently released his press statement yesterday afternoon.

"Sometimes politics can get awfully awfully rough" he told his friends "but you've got to make decisions and by God I've made them. And you know what? I haven't lost yet — though I get s some awfully nasty letters."

McCarthy said he had not been "looking forward to shaking hands at 5 a.m. at the Vallejo shipyard or to eating all that spaghetti." But he conceded he will "probably miss it all."

Famed Pet, Josephine The Poodle, Dies

NEW YORK (AP) — Josephine, the black miniature poodle whose life story sold over 1 million copies, died of a heart attack in a veterinarian's office Tuesday. She was 15.

The dog, a television personality in her own right, belonged to novelist Jacqueline Susanne who described her life in "Every Night, Josephine."

$3 Million Emergency College Funds Sought

SACRAMENTO (AP) — A bill to create a $3 million emergency fund for extra classrooms and teachers at state colleges where enrollment exceeds budget projections was introduced Tuesday by Sen. Alfred E. Alquist, D-San Jose.

Alquist said the emergency fund he proposes is necessary because the colleges must do budget planning 18 months in advance, which makes accurate enrollment projections difficult. A similar proposal by Alquist died last year when Gov. Reagan failed to budget funds.

"Students should not be penalized by inadvertent mistakes in enrollment projections," he said. He added that the campuses at San Francisco, San Jose and Sacramento have been particularly hard hit with larger increases in applications than anticipated.

Those three campuses have been the scenes of overnight vigils by prospective new students before the opening of registration and mile-long registration lines or long lists of qualified refused students.

"Purpose of the fund is to ease the recurring enrollment crisis and to help state colleges meet their commitment to accept qualified students," Alquist said.

He said the fund could be used for additional staff and facilities when enrollment at a campus exceeds by two per cent the number anticipated in the operating budget.

He said the fund was not conceived as a means of funding an increased college system enrollment, but rather to meet enrollment emergencies.

Therefore, he said, he did not have a specific number of additional students in mind. "But costs are generally about $1,000 a student, so you could expect that this would provide for about 3,000 additional students."

Another higher education measure introduced Tuesday would reduce terms of Regents of the University of California from 16 to eight years and would require senate confirmation of appointees of the governor.

Assemblyman John Stull, R-Leucadia, said his proposed constitutional amendment was in response to "a definite need to establish more effective controls over the administration of the University and to bring the Regents into closer harmony with the wishes of the taxpaying public."

Stull's subcommittee on educational environment held hearings throughout 1969 on campus unrest.

Other features of the Stull amendment, which would go on the November ballot if approved by the legislature, would give the legislature the power by a two-thirds vote to remove an appointed Regent and would replace the head of the Mechanics Institute on the board with the president pro tem of the senate.

which is a group of homeowners' organizations, had said previously he would consider running if Gnoss didn't.

Gnoss was a pivotal figure on the board of supervisors, often casting swing votes on important issues. Last year, his favorable vote saved the county planning director's job for Paul C. Zucker, under fire from two board members and developers.

In a statement upon his pending retirement, Gnoss listed these accomplishments by the county during his 17 years in office: construction of the Marin County Civic Center and Veterans Memorial Auditorium, beginning of Point Reyes National Seashore and creation of Stafford Lake Park in Novato and other recreational areas, growth of the Marin County Airport at Novato, now named Gnoss Field after him, establishment of a county library at Novato and creation of a flood control district for Novato.

Among public offices and organizational memberships held by Gnoss were or are; Novato Community Club, president; Novato Fire Department, secretary and president; Novato Farm Bureau, president; Marin County Farm Bureau, president, three terms; North Marin County Water District, director; Bay Area Air Pollution Control District board, director; Marin-Sonoma Fair, director

Aso, Novato Druids, member; Novato Chamber of Commerce, member; Novato Rotary Club, member; Honorary member of Lions, and the Novato Fire Association, member.

Gnoss, a Democrat, lives at 623 Olive Avenue.

Cleaver Plans Sneak Reentry

NEW YORK (UPI)—Black jpanther information minister Eldridge jcleaver says he'll sneak back into the United States to help Negroes "take our freedom."

In a CBS television interview taped in Algiers, Cleaver said Negroes are not being allowed their freedom in the United States and consequently would have to "take it" by force.

Cleaver, who fled the country last year, said President Nixon, SKEN. John McClellan, FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover and others in the "establishment" must be "apprehended."

Nixon Acts To Dry Up Foreign Dope Sources

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Nixon administration hopes within three years to dry up the foreign heroin sources that supply the estimated 180,000 addicts in the United States.

A high White House source, who declined to be identified publicly, told reporters Tuesday France already has stepped up its narcotics police force in the Marseilles area. U.S. authorities have estimated 80 per cent of the heroin smuggled into the United States comes from opium grown in Turkey and manufactured in the Marseilles area.

In outlining progress in the semisecret administration effort, the official said the United States would like Turkey to outlaw the growth of opium poppies although it would mean the loss of a $6 million crop that is the only source of cash for some poor farmers. The administration source said the Turks "certainly have every right to expect" U.S. compensation for the loss.

Turkey is one of only 10 nations which can legally grow opium for medicines under an international convention.

President Nixon quietly issued orders shortly after he took office to do something about the heroin problem, the source said, and it has since been made "a foreign policy objective of the United States that no illicit opium should be grown and no illicit heroin should be manufactured and none should be admitted to the United States."

Past efforts to persuade other countries to help control the problem failed, the White House official said, because no program has ever had the status of a formal foreign policy objective.

In addition, he said, Nixon has given it his personal attention and urged his Cabinet members to get involved personally.

Fairfax Rec Panel Splits on park Rules

The Fairfax park and Recreation Commission split 3-2 last night in approving proposed rules for city park use that would shift authority from the city clerk to the commission.

Voting for the park rules were Chairman Louis A. Soldivini Joseph E. Martinez and David R. Seyler. Voting against were Dolores Dollahite and Joan Brown.

The new rules would require groups using the park to get permission from the commission rather than the city clerk reported secretary Eleanora Edgar.

Under the proposed rules four types of activity would be banned: amplified sound after 9 p.m. groups unable to put up the required use deposit groups advocating violent or unlawful overthrow of the government and activities prohibited by state or local law. The city council could grant permission for amplified sound after 9 p.m. The proposed rules will go to the council for action.

The Fairfax Park and Recreation Commission also: RECREATION—Heard a report by recreation director Anthony Barbera who said four basketball teams will begin league play in two weeks a teen dance with the Owls is scheduled for Jan. 30 at the pavilion and vandalism has taken a sharp drop.

FLOODLIGHTS—Approved a bid by Tamalpais Electric Company of $194 to install floodlights at the pavilion. The board asked for an automatic timer to turn on the lights nightly.

TREE—Ordered a letter sent to the Fairfax Festival Committee thanking it for a living Christmas tree donated for the parkade.

BICYCLE PATH—Was told by Seyler he will prepare maps of the proposed bicycle path which will ru along Lansdale Avenue Broadway and Sir Francis Drake Boulevard.

Report Scheduled On Transportation Study

A progress report on the county's balanced transportation study will be heard at a meeting of the City-County Planning Council at 8 p.m. tomorrow at the Civic Center.

The council will also discuss the housing report used for the Oct. 25 conference on housing sponsored by the League of Women Voters at Dominican College of San Rafael.

Congress has passed a law [illegible] legal to ship alligators, or hides, between states if the animals, or hides, were obtained illegally.

Senator Asks Tonkin Gulf Policy Repeal

WASHINGTON (AP) — Republican Sen. Charles McC. Mathias is urging a reluctant State Department to endorse his call for repeal of the Gulf of Tonkin resolution and three legacies of Cold War crises.

There has been no evidence of success so far. "The situation is under review," a Mathias spokesman said, acknowledging that the administration is not enthusiastic about the proposal.

Matnias has conferred with Undersecretary of State Elliott Richardson, and with Bryce N. Harlow, counsellor to the President, in hopes of gaining administration support.

His resolution is one of 10 bearing on Vietnam policy and awaiting public hearings before the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, probably late this month.

The Mathias proposal urges government reform in Saigon, endorses President Nixon's plan for "accelerated withdrawal" of American forces from South Vietnam, and repeals a series of foreign policy resolutions which the Maryland senator said vest "uninhibited powers" to the administration.

The Tonkin Gulf resolution was overwhelmingly approved by Congress more than five years ago after a reported North Vietnamese attack on U.S. destroyers off the Vietnamese coast.

Mathias said the other resolutions he wants repealed have been "interpreted as relinquishing broad authority to the executive to intervene militarily" in widely scattered areas.

His repeal targets are resolutions covering Formosa, and the islands of Quemoy and Matsu off the Chinese coast; Lebanon and neighboring Middle Eastern nations; and Cuba and Latin America.

While there has been no direct State Department response, the administration already has declared flat opposition to another resolution seeking repeal of the Tonkin measure.

Homeowners In Loma Verde Set To Vote Slate

A slate of officers for the coming year has been offered to the Loma Verde Homeowners Association by a nominating committee headed by Arnold Baptiste.

Nominated were Evelyn Johnson, president; C. B. Chick Hagele, vice presisident; Muriel MacKay, secretary; Marion Burrell, recording secretary, and Klaus Mund, treasurer.

Elections will be at the meeting at 8 p.m. Feb. 2 at the Loma Verde School with nominations also open from the floor, according to president Bruce B. Robinson.

The association set 9 p.m. Feb. 14 at Wild Horse Canyon Club for a Valentine dance to welcome the new officers.

Storm Drainage To Be Eyed By Council

The Larkspur City Council will discuss storm drainage and inspection of Corte Madera Creek in relation to December's storm and flooding when it meets at 8 p.m. today at city hall.

The council also will hear a presentation by Marin County Housing Authority officials on a ballot measure for the June election to authorize federally subsidized low rent housing.

Israeli Jets Hit Targets Near Cairo

TEL AVIV AP - Israeli warplanes struck at Egyptian military targets near Cairo today and crossed west of the Nile River in their deepest air assault since the 1967 Middle East war, the Israeli military command announced.

One of the objectives was Dahashur, eight miles south of Helwan, a Nile river city where a gigantic steel complex is being built with Soviet aid.

Dahashur and at least one of the other centers of the Nile Delta reported hit in the attack are 17 miles from the Egyptian capital.

Israel claims often to have sent planes over Cairo on reconnaissance, but there has been no record of air attack so near the capital since the six-day war ended.

All Israeli planes returned safely, a spokesman said. There was no mention of what damage was inflicted or how long the raid lasted.

The Israeli planes met no interference from Egyptian jets or antiaircraft fire, the Israeli command said.

Among the the targets were Inshas and Tel el Kbabir-but by far the most significant was Dahashur.

It lies close to Helwan, where the Soviets are reported cooperating in a $1-billion expansion of the steelworkers there-designed to become the biggest steel mill on the African continent.

Meanwhile in Jerusalem, yesterday Defense minister Moshe Dayan estimated that Israeli forces have killed about 1,000 Egyptians in fighting along the Suez Canal since April.

Answering questions in the Knesset, Israel's parliament, Dayan said 113 Israelis had been killed and 330 wounded in canal battles from April through November.

The defense minister said Egypt initiated 3,971 military actions along the canal between the end of the 1967 war and last November. There were 3,094 incidents in the Jordanian sector and 305 in the Syrian sector during the same period, he added.

A plot to assassinate Dayan came to light today with the disclosure of the arrest of six Arabs. They were accused of planning to park a bomb-laden car outside the defense minister's favorite Tel Aviv restaurant.

In Bethlehem, Christmas bells rang out again today as the world's 145 million Eastern Orthodox communicants observed their feast of the Nativity.

In Paris, French Foreign Minister Maurice Schumann tried to reassure U.S. Ambassador Sargent Shriver that France's Middle East policy including arms sales to the Arab states-would not harm American interests in the area.

Secrecy Clamped On Airlifts From Cuba

MIAMI (AP) — The U.S. government has dropped a curtain of secrecy on the airlift of Americans from Cuba which began in December, 1966.

Arrivals on the latest airlift flight to the U.S.-Mexico border Nov. 26 brought the total number of Americans repatriated to an estimated 750. Nearly as many are reported still waiting to get out of Cuba.

Matthew Smith, state department coordinator of Cuban affairs here, declined Tuesday to give any further official information on the airlift.

"It is not a matter for the public to know," said Smith. "Any information about this might affect our negotiations and thus hurt Americans still in Cuba."

Even the number of Americans repatriated to date was kept secret. Last July the State Department reported that 616 Americans had been repatriated by airlift along with 960 Cuban members of their families.

The department reported at the time that about 800 U.S. citizens still wanted to leave Cuba. It said also that about 20 U.S. citizens were in Cuban prisons.

Every month a flight of the airlift, arranged through the Mexican government and financed by U.S. taxpayers, lands at Matamores, Mexico.

The repatriates and Cuban members of their families walk across the international bridge to Brownsville, Tex. After processing by U.S. authorities, they are on their own.

The U.S. Immigration Service in Brownsville reported that since monthly repatriation planes began arriving at Matamores in December 1967, a total of 606 U.S. citizens and 1,032 Cubreached there aboard a total of 24 flights.

Shoreline Board Votes Bond ale

A resolution authorizing the Shoreline Unified School District to sell $24,000 worth of bonds to finance completion of the new Tomales High School was approved last night by the district board.

Supt. Charles E. McCully said the bonds were approved by voters in November of 1968 but had not been sold.

The board also reviewed the district's current operating budget

Pleads Innocent

Dennis Bruce Williams, 20, of San Francisco, pleaded innocent yesterday in Marin Municipal Court to charges of possessing marijuana and a pipe for smoking it when arrested Dec. 28 in Novato. A preliminary hearing was set for Feb. 24.

Trio To Appear In Court Today On Drug Charges

Three persons arrested in a raid on a Mill Valley residence were to appear in Marin Municipal Court today on drug charges.

Arrested in the house at 98 Locust Avenue were Carole Ann DeMartini, 22; Toni Delma Carbonaro, 22; and Stephen Joseph Garbonaro, 24. All were booked into Marin County Jail on suspicion of possessing marijuana for sale and Miss DeMartini was also charged with possession of restricted drugs.

Agents said they went to the house with a search warrant Monday and found marijuana in several rooms a brass water pipe and a syringe hidden in a Monday and found Marijuana in

Mitchell Sink, 24, of Lagunitas, arrived at the house when agents were there and was arrested on suspicion of visiting a place where narcotics were being used. A New Racially Mixed School Plan Adopted

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)— The San Francisco Board of Education has approved a controversial new elementary school complex plan designed to provide more racially balanced classes and also improve the quality of education in them.

The board's unanimous approval of Dr. Robert E. Jenkins Quality-Equality Plan came early today after four hours of speeches pro and con. It means that 9,000 children in two clusters of elementary school will start next Sept. 20 to go to racially mixed classes.

In addition, the children will not move from grade to grade as such but will progress according to their own talents, interests and abilities.

No crosstown busing is involved, but there will be shuttle busing within the two areas involved—the Richmond District and an area southeast of Golden Gate Park.

When Dr. Jenkins presented his latest report three weeks ago, he conceded that $1.6 million in funding for the plan had not yet been met.

James Haag, USF computer specialist and father of three children in the proposed complex area, pledged $100,000 worth of computer services work on behalf of the plan at Tuesday night's meeting.

Opposition to the plan was led by the Concerned Parents Association, a group that failed in an attempt to force an elected Board of Education in last November's municipal election.

Robert Nelson, president of the association, termed the "busing complex proposal" a "tragedy for education in San Francisco."

"Literally thousands of hours of effort have been wasted," he said, and "hundreds of thousands of precious education dollars have been diverted from the school children of our city.

"The views of parents in the complex areas have been polarized. Friend has turned against friend, neighbor now fights neighbor...and for what? The possibility that at best we might integrate a handful of our better black schools?

"The more likely result is, of course, the creation of morek segregated schools and decaying neighborhoods, if one is not blind to the history of similar busing schemes that have been tried in outer urban areas."

Injuries Minor In Collision

Ronald Jerome Walter 20, of no known address, has been charged in Marin Municipal Corourt with possessing marijuana after Mill Valley police arrested him Saturday on suspicion of selling an underground publication without a permit.

He is to return to court Tuesday to enter a plea.

Police said that they found marijuana and suspected dangerous drugs in his pockets when they searched him after picking him up at Lytton Square.

FairMarin May Receive Stockstads Resignation

The possible resignation of Harold Stockstad president of FairMarin probably will come up for discussion at a Fair-Marin directors meeting set for 8 p.m. Jan. 19 at 45 Mitchell Boulevard at Northgate Industrial Park San Rafael.

Leon G. Kalimos executive director of Fair-Marin said Stockstad brought up the question of his resignation at Monday's meeting of Fair-Marin but the four directors present decided not to duscuss it because three directors were absent.

According to Kalimos Stockstad began by saying: "As you know the (board of) supervisors suggested Iresign."

The directors present said they didn't want to discuss the matter however because of the absenttzes and because of another pressing matter.

The absentees were Marilyn Miskimen Stephen A. Zellerbach and W.P. (Doc) Duhamel.

The board of supervisors criticized Fair-Marindirectors recently for not starting immediately on a campaign to raise $500,000 to complete the second phase of the Veterans Memorial Auditorium. Stockstad insisted his board needed more time to draw up a long range plan for a $9 million expansion program before starting on the fund-raising campaign.

Supervisor Peter R. Arrigoni Jr. told Stockstad he should resign if he was not prepared to accelerate the fund campaign.

Multiple Weed Charges Filed

James Winton Gastman,26, of San Rafael, was arraigned yesterdayin Marin Municipal Court on charges of possessing marijuana, giving away pot and using a minor to give away the weed.

Another man arrested with him Saturday by San Rafael police, Gregory James Burrill, 25, also of San Rafael was not charged with any offense.

Gastman was arrested after police went to his home on a tip that marijuana cigarettes were being rolled in the house.

San Anselmo Citizens Ask Council Action On Floods

Residents and merchants gave the San Anselmo City Council a host of suggestions last night for short and long range ways to beat the city's flood problems.

The special session, resulting from the flooding of homes, businesses and streets during heavy rains Dec. 20, also brought a demand for a better early-warning system.

Councilmen authorized taking $1,000 out of the general reserve for creek clearing and took other recommendations under study.

Charles R. Best Sr. of 64 Woodside Drive suggested that the city put a proposition on the April ballot to let voters decide if the city should join the Corte Madera Creek Flood Control District.

He described San Anselmo Creek as "nothing but a storm drain."

Charles R. Leitzell, public works director, said the city didn't join the flood control district, mainly because the people opposed have a concrete channel through town.

The Army Corps of Engineers plans call for concrete channels for San Anselmo and Sleepy Hollow creeks, he reported.

Short-range solutions taken under consideration by the council were:

An early warning device, called a "panic button," in the creek which would activate an alarm when storm waters hit a high mark.

A city-wide warning system, five blasts on fire horns four times in a row, to alert residents in low-lying areas and merchants to flooding.

Improvement of the response by the city's emergency personnel.

Mayor Woodrow V. Capurro said an early-warning device would give the city staff ample time to warn merchants so they could sandbag their property.

The mayor also felt in floods or any disaster, "the city staff as a whole should respond, and not leave it up to a handful of people."

Richard A. Kientz, representing a committee of merchants along San Anselmo Avenue who were flooded, said 23 businesses were affected and the loss estimated at $380.

Kientz submitted a list of recommendations including creek clearing, warning system and purchase of water vacuums.

Mozart Kaufman, owner of a department store at 540 San Anselmo Avenue, said there has been flooding for years, but residents have been complacent. "I don't feel the city's really responsible for what happened. We haven't done anything about it for the last 20 to 30 years, as citizens we didn't ask."

Leitzell said although the storm measured a record high at the Lagunitas Bridge in Ross, there was less flooding in San Anselmo than there was in 1955.

Former Mayor Arthur W. Smith recalled when flood waters along San Anselmo Avenue "came rushing down in torrents, window high," and warned that heavy flooding could come again "if something isn't done to prevent it."

Leitzell said the city has never had a master plan for storm drainage, but has budgeted funds this year for a plan with hopes of getting 50 per cent federal financing.

August Kientz, owner of a pastry shop along San Anselmo Avenue, said the Army Corps of Engineers had a plan in the mid-1940s which called for "a mass culvert through town."

There were complaints about flooding from residents of the Morningside Drive Area, and Leitzell said until Sleepy Hollow Creek was widened or improved, there would be flooding.

He said San Anselmo Creek had been cleared, but there was a problem of debris from the Sleepy Hollow and Fairfax areas nearby.

A. R. Wessell of 54 Sir Francis Drake Boulevard told of seeing "thousands of board feet of lumber" going down the creek.

Mayor Capurro felt "one of the biggest stumbling points" was the Ongaro building near Bridge Avenue. "Whenever water hits it, it has nowhere to go," and "it goes back down San Anselmo Avenue."

Residents called for strong enforcement of the dumping law. A councilman explained that it was hard to enforce because someone virtually had to be caught in the act.

Councilman Kenneth L. Anderson said most of the creek was on private property and it was the property owners' responsibility to keep it clear.

Sonoma State Due State Fire Check

A representative of the state Fire Marshall's office will visit Sonoma State College within 10 days to inspect campus fire alarm systems and local fire-fighting facilities.

William S. Garrett of the fire marshall's office in Sacramento called the inspection a routine follow-up to one made three years ago. Gregory Jilka of Petaluma, student body vice president, said he felt that recent student concern about possible flaws in fire protection had caused the inspection.

The flags of Algeria, Libya, Malaysia, the Maldive Islands, Mauritania, Pakistan, Singapore, Tunisia and Turkey all have a crest device.

Bonn Knocks On Red Doors To Cooperate

BONN — (Toronto News Service) — Bonn's new government has knocked on the door of Communist East Germany to propose "contractually agreed cooperation," improvement of inter-German relations and even admitted the existence of "two states in one German nation."

Muffled voices from behind the door spoke of "certain new accents" worth analyzing but then repeated old and unacceptable demands for full diplomatic recognition of the German Democratic Republic as a foreign and sovereign state — a demand which even the new Bonn regime cannot accept.

In his government's recent policy statement, Chancellor Willy Brandt went further than any West German leader before him. He offered to "normalize" East-West German relations and prove that Bonn is making "an honest attempt at understanding" and "becoming a people of good neighbors."

He proposed a nonagression pact with East Germany and offered "cooperation," where his predecessor Kurt Georg Kiesinger had only spoken of "contacts". He announced that Bonn would drop the so-called Hallstein Doctrine, under which Bonn automatically broke diplomatic relations with nations recognizing East Germany.

But Brandt wouldn't go so far as offering full recognition. That is out of the question, The right for self-determination also applies to the German nation. He did not, however, repeat previous government's claims that West Germany alone had the right "to speak for all Germans" since it had the only democratically elected government.

After Brandt and his Liberal-Socialist government had weathered the opposition's criticism and courageously restrained from putting all its cards on the table to answer searching questions from the Christian Democrats' ranks, he turned his ear eastward but heard very little to encourage him.

East Berlin's answer, published in the Communist Party paper Neues Deutschland, was moderate in tone but unbending in demand. It called Brandt's offer "nebulous" and reminded him of their ultimate demand for full diplomatic recognition. Brandt was to be given time to find his way through the political inheritance. But this readiness was limited "until the fog has lifted, which still surrounds many things."

Political observers in Bonn believe this period of grace won't last for very long, and that the day is not very far off when East Berlin and the other Communist states categorically insist that their basic demands be fulfilled.

Whatever Bonn's offers of good will, of improving relations, of intergovernmental negotiations, of nonagression and good neighborship, they hit the stone wall of "diplomatic recognition first" and bounced right back into the lap of Brandt and his foreign minister Walter Scheel.

World Paradox: Surplus And Starving

ROME (AP) — Much of the world faces poverty, hunger and starvation, while at the same moment, in what could be described as perhaps the cruellest paradox of modern times, some nations suffer the burden of mountainous surpluses of wheat and dairy products.

The Food and Agricultural Organization of the United Nations, based in Rome, says in its summary of 1969 that both the United States and Canada have huge wheat surpluses, and the biggest agricultural problem confronting Western Europe is a large dairy food surplus.

By contrast, India produces 100 million tons of grain each year, and needs every bit of it. If weather conditions cause a drop as small as 10 per cent in India's grain production, FAO notes, India needs an emergency supplement of some 10 million tons.

Here's how worldwide surpluses stack up, according to FAO's summary:

The United States had a 1969 wheat surplus of 22.1 million metric tons. Canada added 22.6 million tons to the mountain of grain: Australia holds 7.5 million tons; the European Common Market countries have a surplus of 10 million tons; Argentina holds nearly 750,000 tons and the Soviet Union and Hungary have an unspecified total which FAO estimates at a huge 62.2 metric tons.

India, Pakistan, the Philippines and Mexico are nearing self-sufficiency in grain production, with surpluses in sight in 30 years, FAO reports.

Stocks of butter and skim milk also add up to a gigantic heap.

France has 151,000 tons of excess butter, a commodity particularly expensive and difficult to store because of deterioration. West Germany was saddled with excess butter stocks of 104,000 tons; the United Kingdom 75,000 tons; the United States 55,000 tons; New Zealand 52,000; Australia 24,000; Netherlands 40,000; Canada 15,000; Sweden 9,000; Belgium 7,000; Ireland 13,000; Finland 5,000; Switzerland 2,000 and the Soviet Union an unspecified surplus.

The United States has 122,000 tons of surplus skim milk; Canada has 90,000 tons; France 60,000; West Germany 47,000; Belgium 30,000; Netherlands 22,000; the United Kingdom 13,000 and Switzerland 13,000 tons.

In addition, Japan has a surplus of 5.6 million tons of rice and Brazil has surplus coffee in the amount of 2.6 million tons.

None of the governments involved nor FAO has found a promising solution to the problem of too much food.

If food is given away to the countries that need it, world trade would be affected adversely, FAO notes. Storage also presents problems. FAO estimates storage alone may cost 10 per cent of the total value of grain per year. Butter costs even more to store because of spoilage.

One possible solution probed by FAO is to use surplus food as money to help pay for development projects in countries which would not have been able to import the food in the first place. It is felt that this method would least affect world trade, and that roads, schools or dams built with food as currency would leave a lasting monument to the food eaten.

One solution no one considers anymore is that of the 1930s — when piglets were plowed under the soil in the U.S. and coffee was used to fuel locomotives in Brazil.

Sauce Makes The Chicken Supreme

There are several new things about this easy and attractive chicken bake. The mayonnaise used in breading the chicken pieces gives it wonderful color and a little flavor that kind of teases the imagination. The elegant sauce supreme is just perfectly seasoned for the chicken — never overwhelming the delicate chicken flavor. And the tangy cling peach slices add that freshness and texture change that really places this among the top chicken recipes.

BAKED CHICKEN WITH SAUCE SUPREME

1 cup fine dry bread crumbs
½ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
1 fryer-broiler chicken (3-lbs.) cup up
½ cup mayonnaise

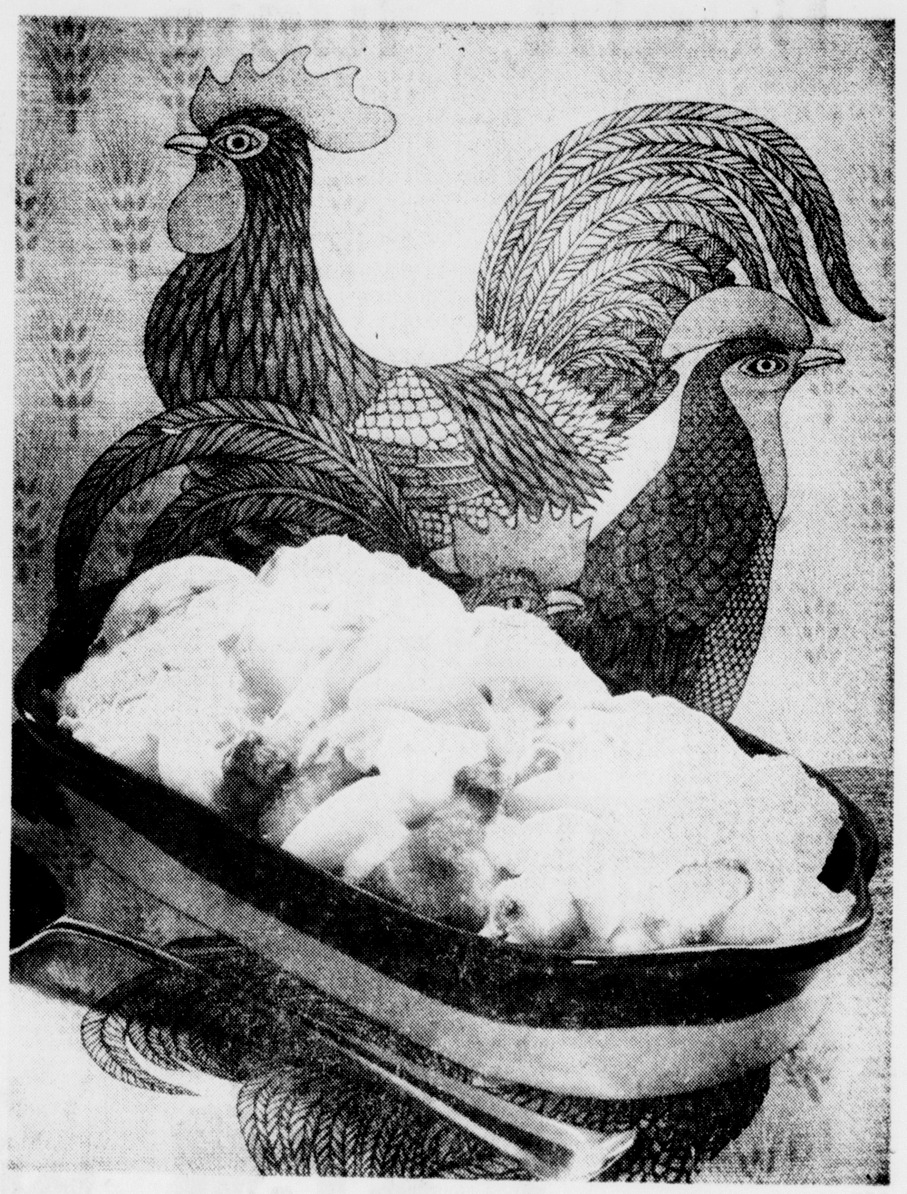
Sauce

2 tablespoons butter
2 tablespoons flour
1 teaspoon chicken stock base
¼ cup dry white wine or peach syrup
1 can (3-oz.) mushrooms
1 cup light cream
1 can (1-lb.) cling peach slices

Combine bread crumbs with salt and pepper. With a pastry brush, generously spread chicken pieces with mayonnaise. Roll in bread crumbs. Place chicken pieces on a shallow baking pan in a single layer. Bake in 375-degree (moderately hot) oven 50 minutes or until tender.

Sauce: Melt butter in skillet. Stir in flour and chicken stock base. Gradually stir in wine, mushroom liquid and cream. Cook and stir until thickened. Add mushrooms and drained peach slices. Serve hot over baked chicken.

Makes 4 servings.



Here's Ground Beef Soup To Warm Those Frosty Evenings In January

A soup as versatile as California beef soup should be within the repetoire of every busy homemaker and hostess. This quick-to-make beef soup has all the good flavor and aroma found in traditional soups that are simmered and simmered.

This ground meat soup provides the optimum advantages to a homemaker on the busiest night in the family circle. Its hearty beef balls floating in the broth make a wholesome foundation for a family dinner. A simple menu can be completed with marinated tomato slices on lettuce and cornbread. Dessert can be a beverage by serving hot chocolate with a dollop of whipped cream.

"Soup's on" will be a welcomed call at supper or midnight party with a south-of-the-border theme inspired by this soup based on the classic albondiga, a Mexican meatball soup. The Mexican theme can be developed by serving the soup in a gay-colored pottery tureen alongside matching soup bowls buffet-style. The party menu may include green salad mixed with ripe olives and sliced avocados, hot tortillas and chocolate mousse. This economical menu would make a Pinata Party special.

CALIFORNIA BEEF SOUP

⅛ pound ground beef (lean)
¾ cup soft bread crumbs
¼ cup water
1 egg
¼ cup minced onion
1¾ teaspoons salt
⅛ teaspoon black pepper
¾ cup thinly sliced onion
1 tablespoon butter or margarine
4 (10½-ounce) cans beef broth
3 cups water
1 (8-ounce) can tomato sauce
1 tablespoon chili powder

Mix beef, crumbs, water, egg, minced onion, 1¼ teaspoons salt and pepper together in mixing bowl. Shape into 1-inch meat balls. Saute sliced onion lightly in butter in Dutch oven. Add broth, water, tomato sauce, chili powder and remaining ½ teaspoon salt; bring to boil. Drop meat balls into soup; simmer until cooked, about 10 minutes. Makes 6 or more servings.

Burgundy Beef Of France Is An American Favorite

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press

Each country has its favorite version of stew, but in recent years the French way of cooking beef in Burgundy wine has won its way into the repertoire of American cooks.

No wonder! The dish, although it calls for a goodly number of ingredients, is not difficult to put together. It's not lavishly expensive. And its flavor is so good it makes an excellent offering for company.

The latest American adaptation of Burgindy Beef tried in our kitchen makes life easier than usual for the cook. That's because frozen small whole onions are used. No peeling. Frozen mushrooms that come in a convenient package also go in as well as a little chopped parsley from the freezer.

Here's the recipe. But a couple of changes may be made, if you like. Before you brown the onions, you can sprinkle them with a teaspoon of sugar. And although this isn't traditional, you can add a quarter cup of dry sherry when you pour in the Burgundy.

What to serve with Burgundy Beef? Lots of crusty bread — French or sourdough. And a big salad of tossed greens. Dessert can be a simple fruit combination or something luxuriously sweet. Take your choice!

BURGUNDY BEEF

4 tablespoons butter
3 pounds boneless beef rump, cut in 1½-inch cubes
¼ cup brandy
2 beef bouillon cubes dissolved in 1 cup boiling water
1½ cups red Burgundy wine
1 teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
1 bay leaf
½ teaspoon dry crushed thyme
2 tablespoons frozen chopped parsley
2 strips bacon, diced
1 bag (1 pound, 4 ounces) frozen small whole onions
1 package (6 ounces) frozen whole mushrooms

In a large skillet in the hot butter, brown beef well on all sides.

Transfer beef and pan juices to a casserole that has a tight fitting lid. Add bouillon, wine, salt, pepper, bay leaf, thyme and parsley. Cover tightly with foil (to collect droplets of steam), then cover with lid and cook in a preheated 350-degree oven until beef is tender — about 2 hours.

About 10 minutes before beef is done, cook bacon in skillet; add onions and mushrooms (not defrosted). Cover and cook over medium heat, stirring several times, until vegetables are thawed and tender — about 5 minutes. Uncover and continue cooking until liquid has evaporated and vegetables are lightly browned. Add to beef mixture. If you like, you may sprinkle the beef dish with additional chopped parsley.

Makes 6 to 8 servings.

Softer Hair

Give your hair body and make it soft, glossy and manageable by massaging one to two eggs, beaten in eight ounces of lukewarm water and strained, into the hair after the regular shampoo. Rinse thoroughly in lukewarm water then set hair as usual.

Change The Menu By Trying An African-American Dinner

African fare inspires new ideas for family dinners. From the wealth of African foods come many unusual dishes using familiar ingredients to add variety to your daily meals.

Ideal for the busy mother, African foods are quite simple in preparation, yet colorful and very tasty. Authentic African cookery is highly spiced with pilli-pilli (hot red pepper), ginger and curry. With only minor modifications, these foods can be adapted to your taste to become family favorites, offering a nice change of pace to intrigue lagging appetites.

Peanuts are a great favorite of Ghanians. Called groundnuts, they are used in many unique and delicious ways, as in this Groundnut Soup. This adaption is highlighted with the addition of beer, creating a delicate blend of flavors.

Favorite of Nigerians, Wolof Rice is the beef stew of Africa. Featuring okura (okra), which grows abundantly in Nigeria, and pilli-pilli, this adaptation takes on a new twist with the addition of beer. Used as the cooking liquid, beer enhances the flavors of the beef and vegetables with a subtle taste of its own.

GROUNDNUT SOUP
(about 3 pounds)

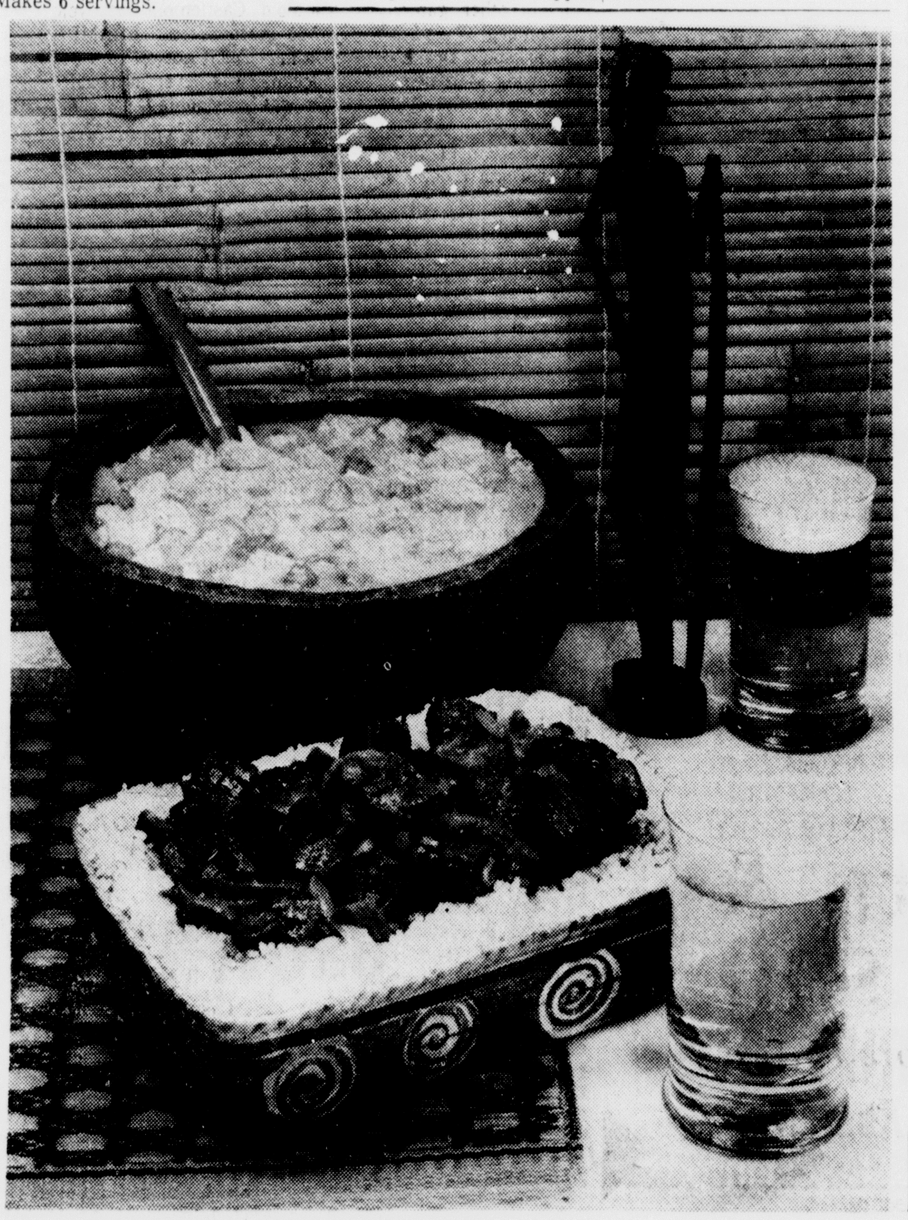
1 chicken, cut into serving pieces
2 tablespoons butter or margarine
6 cups beer
2 medium yellow onions, trimmed and quartered
1 tablespoon salt
¼ teaspoon black pepper
1 cup peanut butter
1 can (6-ounce) tomato paste
¼ teaspoon crushed red peppers
2 cups carrots, cut into 1-inch pieces
1 package (10-ounce) frozen okra

In a Dutch oven or large saucepan, brown chicken in butter. Add beer, onions, salt and pepper. Cover and cook over low heat 45 minutes, or until chicken is tender. Remove chicken and set aside. Skim fat off surface of broth. Blend a small amount of broth into peanut butter until smooth. Blend peanut butter into chicken stock. Add tomato paste, red peppers and carrots. Cover and simmer 10 minutes longer, or until vegetables are tender. Remove chicken from bones; cut into 1-inch pieces. Return to soup and heat. Makes 8 1-cup servings.

WOLOF RICE

2 pounds round steak, cut into 1-inch pieces
2 tablespoons oil
1 large onion, sliced
½ cup green pepper, cut into 1-inch strips
1 large clove garlic, minced
1 cup beer
¼ cup tomato paste
2 teaspoons salt
¼ teaspoon crushed red peppers
1 package (10-ounce) frozen okra
2 large tomatoes, cut into wedges
3 cups hot, cooked rice

In a large skillet, brown beef cubes in oil. Add onion, green pepper and garlic; cook until vegetables are tender. Blend in beer, tomato paste, salt and red peppers. Cover and cook over low heat about 1 hour, or until beef is tender. Stir occasionally. Add okra and cook 10 minutes longer. Add tomatoes and heat. Serve over hot cooked rice. Makes 6 servings.



Fish Chowders

New Englanders are famous for their great fish chowders. In one such recipe, a little lemon is added for sprightliness of taste. And a bit of sugar — 1 teaspoon to 10 portions — goes into the cooking pot to blend the hearty flavors of the other foods.

Sugar Dessert

Since sugars satisfy the appetite without fully nourishing, they should be taken near the end of a meal, only after the eating of foods that contain protein, minerals and vitamins.

Hot Wash

Bright, Humble, Talented Teener

By GARY TISCHLER

Jerry Piro is one of those boys who make a coach's days and years — a natural basketball player without the big head or the built-in laziness.

In certain circles, he's already famous and well known.

Enough that the Redwood High School senior has been mentioned in at least two preseason-national basketball magazines as being one of the top cagers in California, and in one case, among the top 10.

He's touted and it all seems to come easy, which makes it, paradoxically, all the tougher.

Piro and basketball have been one and the same thing for an awful long time. People have recognized this early.

"The first time I saw Jerry was when he was an eighth grader, I think," Tamalpais coach Bernie Schneider said. "I've seen him a lot since then, and I'd have to say he's one of the finest players this league and area has ever produced. He does everything well."

He does indeed. He's not a ready made seven-footer. Only 6-1, he boards extremely well against bigger men, shoots well from anywhere, plays defense like a demon. An all-Marin County Athletic League choice last year, he made it on the prestigious Tournament of Champions all-tourney squad with Redwood's loop champions last year, and he was an all-tourney choice at the tough Fresno tournament this season.

The college scouts are looking at him long and longer this year. People are talking about him, and it makes a difference which comes by way of pressure.

"Usually, I try not to notice it," he says. "Maybe I know they're out there, but I don't see them. I don't know what they look like and I don't look for them. I know there might be a lot of pressure for me to score a lot more, but I don't worry about it. If I play my game, the points will come, one way or another. All I want to do is win for the team."

JERRY PIRO

("One of the best things I can say about Jerry is that he's a winner," Redwood coach Dick Hart says. "He's a great competitor and a team player. The boy has always been around basketball. Back in 1964, when his older brother Bob was playing for me, he used to be our waterboy and went on road trips with us.")

"I started playing when I was in second grade, in a CYO league in San Francisco," Jerry recalls. "It was a league for fifth and sixth graders, and I guess I was the youngest guy around. We used to live in the Mission District and I played all the time. But then, I've been really fortunate, I've always had good coaches and people who gave me an opportunity to play, like my brothers."

Jerry doesn't by any means play the perfect basketball game at all times. There are different circumstances for each game. But he's what they call a money player — the more pressure, the better.

("For a while there this year, Jerry thought that maybe he'd have to carry the whole load, and he'd take a few bad shots," Hart said. "But now he knows that some of the new people are going to be fine, and so is he.")

"Sometimes, it's hard getting up for non-league games," Jerry says. "But usually, I go over things in my mind, like plays, reboundings, things that have to be done. In a pressure game, like the TOC, or a big league game, there's no problem. You get up for it naturally."

("He's really a complete ballplayer," says Dave Hennessey, the new Marin Catho-

Rozelle Calls Report 'Irresponsible'

Players In NFL Involved

By UP International

A report four prominent pro quarterbacks would be asked to appear before a Detroit grand jury investigating a nationwide gambling ring has been branded as "totally irresponsible" by professional football commissioner Pete Rozelle.

The report, broadcast Tuesday by NBC-tv news correspondent Bill Matney on the Huntley-Brinkley Show, said that Len Dawson of the Kansas City Chiefs, Joe Namath of the New York Jets, Bill Munson of the Detroit Lions and Karl Sweetan of the Los Angeles Rams would be subpoenaed in about 10 days.

TO TESTIFY

Matney said federal officials told him the players were not necessarily involved in gambling operations but would be needed to confirm some of the information compiled by investigators working on the case.

In a statement from New Orleans, Rozelle said "it is most unfortunate that any sports figures names be mentioned loosely with an investigation of other persons, particularly the name of Len Dawson just prior to his playing in the world championship game."

He said he had been advised by the Justice Department that no decision had been made in the matter. A Justice Department spokesman said later, however that it "never comments" about possible subpoenas.

MAN IN DETROIT

In New Orleans preparing for SUNDAY'S Super Bowl gam against the Minnesota Vikings, Dawson said his name may have been brought into the investigation because of a "casual acquaintance" with a man in Detroit.

The quarterback of the Kansas City Chiefs said he has "not been contacted by any law enforcement agency or apprised of the reason my name has been brought up." The other three men, all of whom also are quarterbacks, were not available for comment.

In his statement Rozelle said that in 1968 Dawson had volunteered to take a lie detector test which "to our satisfaction" cleared him.

"More than a year ago...rumors circulated regarding Dawson," Rozelle said. "At that time, Dawson and his attorney cooperated fully with our office and volunteered to take a polygraph examination to establish his innocence in regard to rumors.

"The test and our own independent investigation proved to our satisfaction that

Lamonica To Miss AFL Stars Game

OAKLAND (UPI) — Rather than risk aggravation of a hand injury, Oakland Raider quarterback Daryle Lamonica will not play in this year's American Football League all-star game.

Not only will Lamonica miss the Jan. 17 contest in Houston, but the Raiders' team physician said Tuesday there is no way the Oakland signal caller could have played in this weekend's Super Bowl, had Oakland been in it.

"No doubt about it," said Dr. Kendall Small. "If the Raiders had gone to the Super Bowl, Daryle wouldn't have been able to grip the ball or throw it."

Lamonica suffered damage to a joint in his right hand when he hit his hand on the helmet of defensive end Aaron Brown while trying to pass during last weekend's AFL title game won by Kansas City, 17-7.

Dr. Small said it will be at least three weeks before the injury heals.

REPLACEMENT

Coach Lou Saban of Denver, who is directing the West squad in the all-star game, will select a replacement for Lamonica.

The seven-year veteran from Notre Dame, who has led the Raiders to three straight AFL West titles and one league title, threw 34 passes during the regular season.

Gov. Reagan To Mediate?

ARCADIA, Calif. (AP) —Gov. Ronald Reagan may be asked Wednesday to mediate the strike at Santa Anita Park and Bay Meadows, according to representatives of the California Horse Racing Board.

The chance of a quick end to the 13-day strike by the AFL-CIO Service Employes International Union was replaced Tuesday by thoughts that the race meetings at the tracks may be cancelled following a breakdown in negotiations.

The union is seeking a $4 a day increase in wages for parmutuel employes. Management has offered a $2 a day raise.

A Near Upset By San Marin

San Marin High School's basketball team and its 6 foot-8 junior center Dana LaFerriere playing probably their finest game of the season came close to upsetting the applecart of once-beaten Sonoma last night before bowing 74-71 at San Marin High last night.

In other games Redwood bombed Westmoor 67-50 in Larkspur; Drake dropped a harrowing 54-52 decision to Oceana at Drake and Terra Linda was bombed by powerful Castlemont of Oakland 59-37 at Terra Linda.

LaFerriere had his best game of the season against Sonoma dumping in 28 points and grabbing 15 rebounds as the Mustangs rallied from a 10-point halftime deficit to close to within three of the Dragons who have lost only to Montgomery of Santa Rosa.

Gary Howard added 19 points to the San Marin total while Sonoma's big two of Dan Waldron and Dick Romberg had 49 points between the, Waldron with 27 and Romberg 22.

Oceana won over Drake with two free throws with only a second left to play. Jeff Meeker with 16 points and Glenn Pfaff with 14 led the way for the Pirates now 3-10.

Redwood roared to a 37-18 halftime lead and never looked back against Westmoor as the Giants pushed their season mark to 11-3. Roger Smith and John Boro each had 14 points and Jerry Piro added 12 as 11 Giants got into the scoring act.

Not a single Terra Linda player scored in double figures as Castlemont last year's Tournament of CHAMPIONS WINNER got off to a 34-21 lead and was never in trouble.

49er Booster Club Has First Year-End Bash

I see where the Marin Chapter, 49er Boosters Club is having its season-ending bash at Marin Country Club in Novato Friday night.

After crying in their beef stroganoff, scalloped potatoes and martinis at a series of 14 weekly luncheons while the 49ers were starving to death afield, the Boosters should be in a good frame of mind at the $10 a plate banquet.

For one thing, this, after all, is the "next year" they've all been waiting for.

Also, they'll be able to bring the ball 'n' chain along to a club function for the first time to show the War Department that the all-male 49er Boosters card-holders are all fine, upstanding gentlemen in the community.

This, also, might be a good time for the Boosters to bring along their sons because such pro grid stalwarts as Roland Lakes, Skip Vanderbundt, Alvin Randolph and Len Rohde will be present. Let the youngsters see that these are warm, friendly and intelligent men and not the numbered, violent robots they portray on the field each Sunday afternoon.

Spurrier Coolest Cat On The Mike

Roland Lakes, all 6-4, 265 pounds of him, is the Best Dresser; Ken Willard and Jim Johnson the best speakers, Elmer Collett the heartiest eater, Charles Krueger the funniest, Steve Spurrier the Coolest Cat at a mike.

Some other thoughts about the Niners gathered by the Boosters Clubbers from the weekly gabfests: A lot of little mistakes in all areas, key injuries on defense and the failure to establish momentum in a winless exhibition schedule all shared responsibility for the terribly disappointing 4-8-2 won-lost-tied season.

Most of the players think the move to Candlestick Park from antiquated Kezar will be for the good and might shake the team out of its losing complex, although there are some who say it will take more than a new environment to do THAT.

Willard thinks the Candlestick AstroTurf will be great, to wit: "I've played on AstroTurf before and really like it. No worry about mud, snow or ice and it enables the fans to see all the plays of football. No doubt it will lengthen careers because it's proven to cut down on knee injuries. I think it should be particularly important at the high school level where players are developing. A lot of kids wouldn't wind up limping the rest of their lives."

(Note: Cost to AstroTurf Candlestick is about $1,013,045 for approximately 120,000 square feet. And you don't even get green stamps.)

New Commandment: Thou Shalt Not Block

At the last luncheon, linebacker coach Mike Giddings gave his tongue-in-cheek description of various positions, i.e.: "Guards. Well, they're fullbacks who can't carry or catch the ball so we stick a 60s number on their backs and put them next to the biggest and squarest guy on the squad, the center. The tackles are the same as the guards only bigger and slower. Tight end is just a name. I've never seen Bob Windsor drunk. For a wide receiver you look for a guy who plays the organ, wears his hair long and is married to Joey Heatherton. Also, wide receivers have their own commandment: Thou Shalt Not Block. And the quarterback? Hah. What talent does it really take for a guy to hold hands with the center?"

Giddings also said the 49ers identify their linebacking positions as Wanda (for weak side), Meg (middle) and Sarah (strong side). "Imagine how foolish I feel," he cracked, "calling them Wanda Wilcox, Meg Nunley and Sarah Vanderbundt!"

Club President Lou Spadia was a surprise guest one Monday and one of his revelations was the fact that the seats at Candlestick will be 19 inches wide. This may seem like an incidental item, but it was warmly received because many of the Boosters have outgrown Kezar. They're called the Rear Guard.

Len Rohde, when asked to comment on the alleged dirty play of a Chicago linebacker, said: "I wouldn't say he's dirty, but I wouldn't turn my back on him."

Is 1970 The Year Of The Explosion?

I think Boosters President Price Hall came up with the best one-word description of the 49ers. "Implosive," he said one frustrating afternoon.

Van Brocklin Gets Promotion

ATLANTA, GA. (AP) -Atlanta Falcons Coach Norm Van Brocklin took on added responsibilities as general manager of the National Football League team yesterday.

In addition, Frank E. Wall who had been team vice president and general manager, was promoted to president.

Falcons owner Rankin M. Smith said the promotions were due to his increased responsibilities at Life Insurance Company of Georgia. He recently assumed the presidency of the Atlanta-based concern.

Smith has been club president since the club was started in 1965 and Wall has been general manager since that post was created in 1967. Van Brocklin replaced Norb Hecker in October 1968.

The insurance executive will serve as chairman of the board of the Falcons organization.

A BUSINESS TRIP

Bourbon Street Is Off Limits

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — The fabled French Quarter of New Orleans jumps and jives from dusk to dawn, but not for the principals in next Sunday's Super Bowl football game.

Bourbon Street, the boulevard of strippers, jazz, highballs and high jinx, is off-limits-if not officially certainly unofficially-for members of the Minnesota Vikings and Kansas City Chiefs.

Asked if the AFL champion Chiefs would be permitted to dabble in this diversion, Coach Hank Stram said sternly:

TO PREPARE

"We are here to prepare for a football game. Our boys will be too occupied to have time for such stuff."

Bud Grant, mild-mannered coach of the NFL Minnesota Vikings, was not quite as direct, but he dropped a subtle hint that even the most obtuse of his muscle men could hardly misconstrue.

"We will have a strict 11 p.m. curfew," Grant said.

On the question of off-limits for the Quarter, he smiled thinly and said, "We will decide that at a team meeting, and we will have a lot of team meetings."

The Vikings are quartered at a motel adjoining the airport, a dozen miles from the heart of the city. The Chiefs are much closer, a hotel about two miles away, but, as far as the city's high life is concerned, they might as well be back in Missouri.

RECORD LOOT

Spartan work and no play is the prescription for both teams — at least until Sunday night when they may break their bonds and spend some of their shares of the record $250,000 gross. Each winning player gets $15,000, each loser $7,500.

That will buy a lot of fun on Bourbon Street.

The stip rocks with a carnival atmosphere. Every night is Mardi Gra, meaning "Fat Tuesday," the two weeks of frolicking in mid-February.

Striptease shows abound-every one boasting a big name performer who exhibits more charms than the others in sin row. The blues, born of trevail on the river and the railroads, vie with Dixieland jazz, America's only native music.

New Orleans provides a mixture of the cultures. The city was founded by the French, then ceded to the Spanish. Spain gave the territory back to France in 1800 and the United States obtained it in the Louisiana Purchase in 1803.

CREOLES

The flag of the Confederacy flew over the bawdy river town until the end of the Civil War.

The population is flavored with Creoles, descendants of French and Spanish colonists, and Cajuns, who came down from Nova Scotia. Yet it is strictly deep South, like something out of Gone With The Wind.

While the football players hummed their own individual blues, thousands poured into the city by rail, road and air for the fourth professional championship game, choking famous restaurants and palaces of gaity.

PIRO

lic coach. "I've been around here for five years, and he's the best I've seen without a doubt.")

Complete. That tells it all as a basketball player. And it's the kind of thing that other people look for.

("He's had all kinds of interest from colleges," Hart says. "They would probably play him as a guard, but I'm sure he'd have no problem making the adjustment. Last summer, at a Stanford basketball camp that had some 100 boys from the West Coast, he was named most valuable. I guess that speaks for itself.")

Jerry can adjust to just about anything. He's an athlete. The kind to whom sports is the world, the center and the hive.

("He's got humility," Hart says. "Not false humility; he's sincere. It makes a good coach out of you. He's successful at what he does, anything.")

But being an athlete who believes in athletics makes life a little complicated. Polite, and sincerely so, tall, handsome, neat and bright (B average), he stands directly in the way and out of the way of where today's youth are supposedly heading which is into the hip, unkempt, rebellious garden, a thorny pathway for Piro.

"I don't know, sometimes in my English class I feel like I'm outnumbered about 26-5," he says. "You listen to their viewpoints, and then you try to give yours, and they jump right in and won't let you finish."

Jerry is also president of the student body at Redwood High School, a school which has been recently racked by turmoil over hair and discipline. And Piro is on the side of the status quo.

"I guess I'm used to it," he says. "The same kids whom you argue with, who question everything, are at the ballgames cheering. But I just think you should do what a coach tells you to do. I guess if we had a long-haired kid playing for us, it would bother me. I think you need team unity, everybody should be the same so you play well together. I guess I'm sort of prejudiced that way."

As student body president, Piro attempted to set up a counter to loosely organized Vietnam Day Moratorium Activities.

"I just wanted people to hear the other side, not this one-sided thing," he said. "We tried to have debates from both viewpoints, the second time."

Basketball and his duties and activities as student body president have kept him busy, but he still keeps his grades up. College is definitely in the future, but he doesn't know what he'll major in.

"I've thought about this a lot, but I really don't know yet," he said. "Maybe I'll go into law."

Items Needed For Indians On Alcatraz

Persons who have nonperishable foods, bedding or warm clothing to donate to the Indians on Alcatraz may bring the items to the Marin Ecology Center, 17 Madrona Street, Mill Valley, or the Switchboard of Marin, 1017 D Street, San Rafael.

According to Chris Klein, who is assisting in the collection, the goods will be taken to Alcatraz by boat each time enough items have been collected.

Marin Tars To Host Skyline

College of Marin's basketball team a little wary after losing it's Camino Norte Conference opener will try to get back into the race tonight when it hosts a brand new conference team Skyline of San Mateo at eight o'clock in Kentfield.

The Tars bowed to West Valley of Campbell last Saturday 78-66 but coach John Panagakis figures they can bounce back.

"We talked about it after the game" he said. "We just didn't play. We didn't do what we were supposed to do. We didn't hustle We can come back."

Biggest man for Skyline is 6 foot-4 center Mike Ferth but the rest of the club stands over six feet including 6-0 guards Dave Stephens and 6-3 guard Dan Coffey.

Skyline lost its conference opener to loop favorite Contra Costa of Richmond 102-81 but not before giving Contra Costa a first-half fight trailing by only 44-40.

"They're a lot like West Valley" Panagakis said.

That's not exactly good news.

The varsity game will be preceded by a frosh game which will see College of Marin meet the San Francisco State frosh at 6 p.m.

Sonoma Cagers Defeated

Missing their star guard Ramon Solomn, the Sonoma State College offense sputtered to a near stop last night as the Cossacks were defeated 85-67 by Nebraska Wesleyan of Lincoln for their seventh straight loss at Rohnert Park.

The game was the final non-league affair for Sonoma State. Coach Doug Earl's five opens Far Western Conference play Friday at San Francisco State in a game beginning at 8 p.m.

JULI McKINSTRY

San Rafael Girl Is Rated Among Top Skaters In U.S.

Among the 150 competitors in this week's Pacific Coast Figure Skating Championships at Berkeley's Iceland (Thursday, Friday, and Saturday), a little 13-year-old San Rafael girl will be getting plenty of attention.

She is Juli McKinstry, an eighth grader at Miller Creek School skating for the Santa Rosa Figure Skating Club. Ever since Peggy Fleming zoomed into stardom, many a newcomer has been boomed as the "new Peggy Fleming." But look at Miss McKinstry's credentials:

AGE 9 — 1966, Central Pacific juvenile girls champion, and runner-up for Pacific Coast title.

AGE 10 — 1967, Central Pacific intermediate ladies' champion, and third place for Pacific Coast title.

AGE 11 — 1968, Central Pacific novice ladies' champion; runner-up for Pacific Coast title; 4th in U.S. nationals for novice ladies' title.

AGE 13 — 1970, Central Pacific junior ladies champion, to date.

Thus, each year Miss McKinstry improves and improves. Her weekly schedule is a pretty rugged one — Mondays, she skates three hours every morning at Berkeley Iceland; Tuesdays thru Fridays, three hours at Redwood Empire Arena in Santa Rosa (30 miles from home); weekends, she goes to Squaw Valley to train there. And, for the past four summers, she has skated all summer at Squaw Valley.

Four top skating people are working with Juli — her coach at Santa Rosa, Skippy Baxter, for the past six years; Jimmy Grogan, working with Juli for the past six months; ditto Barbara Wagner Wrogan (1960 Olympic pairs' champion); and Tim Brown at Berkeley (member of 60 Olympic teams).

Says Baxter: "She is the most talented skater on the Pacific Coast, or, for that matter, in the nation. Right now she has the capabilities of being one of the most outstanding skaters in the world. She definitely has the ability to be another Peggy Fleming, and I'm not afraid to stick my neck out."

Juli, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Howard McKinstry, discovered skating when she was 5. It happened on a ski trip.

Her mother says: "I didn't want to stay on the lower slopes with her, so I took her skating and rented some skates for her. I put hers on, and said, 'wait a minute' while I put mine on — when I looked up, she was skating around, and people asked me how long she had been skating. It was her first time. All she thinks of now is skating. Skippy makes her take a month off, and you'd think the world had come to an end. She is just one of those people who found what they want to do at a very young age. Her goal is just to do the best she can in competitive skating.

"After all, only three girls every four years make the Olympic team, and you're looking at insurmountable odds when people glibly say she will go to the Olympics."

Juli gets up every morning at 4:30, gets to Berkeley or Santa Rosa by 5:30, practices until 8 or 9 a.m., and then goes back to school in San Rafael.

Her dad is an executive with Matson Navigation Company.

Competition is scheduled all day each day (Thursday, Friday, and Saturday), and tickets are priced from $1 to $4, and are available at the box office each night.

Impala Custom Coupe

Who but Chevrolet could bring on the Big Rider?

Impala—eighteen feet of quiet richness.

Nearly four thousand pounds of solid comfort. With room in its fine Body by Fisher for six big people. And with almost two thousand cubic inches of foam cushioning for them.

Impala, Big Rider—with its bigger new standard 250-hp 350-cubic-inch V8 that runs on regular. (Also available: an even bigger regular-fuel V8 at 400 cubic inches.)

Big Rider, thanks to a Chevrolet exclusive in its field: four Full Coil springs matched by computer to your car's total weight, including the equipment you add to it.

So you move just beautifully, perhaps in a custom coupe like the one above.

You can't, of course, see its Astro Ventilation that contributes so much to the hush inside. Or see the steel side-guard beams that offer added protection. Or see its power disc brakes. But they're all there, all standard.

What you can see is that we keep building a lot more car into the car. That's why our big Chevrolet keeps right on being America's favorite car. And keeps right on being first in resale value.

Impala. Big Rider. More car to drive. More car to re-sell.

Putting you first, keeps us first. CHEVROLET

HOW TO PLAY

BRIDGE

By ALFRED SHEINWOLD

Understatement Is Usually Key To A British Partner

Some of the best English players are surprisingly mild of speech. If you draw one of them as your partner, he will not tell you from time to time that you played the last hand like a pixillated penguin. He will simply murmur "hard luck," and go on the next hand. Understatement is his weapon against the bludgeonings of chance, so beware if he goes so far as to say "very sporting, old boy."

TAKES IN HAND

I still remember the last time I heard that comment at Crockford's Club in London. Declarer won the first trick in his hand with the king of spades in order to lead a heart. He tried a finesse with dummy's queen, expecting to win this first heart trick no matter which opponent had the king. In an expert game, hardly anybody will take his king the first time even if the finesse is unfavorable for declarer.

But this time East took the king of hearts at once and returned a spade to dummy's ace. Declarer now led out the ace of hearts, discovering the 5-1 break. Since the hearts were obviously hopeless, declarer led the queen of clubs for a finesse.

DEFEATS CONTRACT

West took the king of clubs and rattled off three spade tricks, defeating the contract. South avoided looking his partner in the eye, but North contented himself with the mild observation: "Very sporting, old boy."

It was harsh criticism from an English partner. Translated, it meant: "You gave them a chance to beat you at a cold contract. Idiot!"

QUITE ACCURATE

Either way of putting it is quite accurate. A glance at the clubs shows that South can surely take four club tricks even if the finesse loses. He should take the first trick in dummy with the ace of spades to lead the queen of clubs for a finesse. Even though West takes the king of clubs, South will make his game with four clubs, two diamonds, two spades and one heart.

DAILY QUESTION

You hold:
♥ K 10 8 5 2
♦ Q 10 8
♣ 4

What do you say?

ANSWER: Bid two hearts.

Despite the very strong heart support and the singleton the hand simply isn't strong enough for a jump to four hearts. If you had no clubs at all you would jump to four hearts, but with the actual distribution you need about two more points in high cards.

93 Strep Cases

Ninety-three cases of streptococcus infection, 48 of gonorrhea, two of measles and one of salmonella were reported in Marin County last week, according to Dr. Carolyn B. Albrecht, county health officer.

ALMANAC

Today is Wednesday, Jan. 7, the 7th day of 1970 with 358 more to follow.

The moon is new. The morning stars are Venus and Jupiter. The evening stars are Mercury, Mars and Saturn.

On this day in history:

In 1789 George Washington was elected the first President of the United States.

In 1927 regular trans-Atlantic telephone service began between New York and London.

In 1967 U.S. combat troops in Vietnam entered the Mekong River delta for the first time.

A thought for the day: Andre Maurois said, "Modesty and unselfishness, there are virtues which men praise, and pass by."

Hub Drugs Raid Leads To Charges

Drug agents armed with a search warrant said they found 238 grams of marijuana in a San Anselmo residence and arrested two men on suspicion of possessing the weed for sale.

Booked into Marin County Jail Monday were Ronald Peter Rodato, 20, of 38 Mira Flores Avenue, San Rafael, and Gary Sheppard Stevens, 20, of 543 Sequoia Avenue, San Anselmo, where the raid was staged. Both posted $1,875 bail to appear in Marin Municipal Court Friday.

Officers said that in addition to the marijuana, they seized $1,700 in cash from Stevens and $1,545 from Rodato. Two young women who were at the house were not arrested because the agents said there was no evidence that they lived there.

Spring Looks

In all areas of fashion for spring the key word is choice. The New York Couture Business Council says, "There are more lengths and looks to choose from than ever before—from the lean, active, vital Katharine Hepburn look to the soft, seductive, ultra-femininity of Gloria Swanson of the thirties."

Soft And Fragile

The way to dress for spring evenings, according to Mildred Sullivan, of the New York Couture Business Council: "Soft and fragile in point d'esprit, in floating chiffon, in jerseys, in Belle Epoque looks . . . or drop-dead glamorous in slithery chemise shapes."

Some China Should Be Kept Away From Detergents

The question of dishwasher safeness for good china was of concern to women who participated in a recent survey on china made for Spode of England.

To clear up any doubts, Spode advised them that china with the pattern put on under the glaze — such as earthenware — was impervious to detergents. Fine china patterns, which are usually decorated on top of the glaze, should be kept away from detergents containing strong alkalis or bleaches, but there are plenty of non-alkaline products available which could be safely used with fine china.

In any case, it is always best to use minimum amounts suggested on the package. By taking such simple precautions, fine dinnerware can go in the modern dishwasher with complete confidence.

Linebacker Mark Arneson made 41 unassisted tackles for Arizona's football team last season.

Cracked Eggs

To keep eggs from cracking while boiling, prick each one with a pin before putting them on to boil. To cook cracked eggs, add a teaspoon of salt to the water to prevent eggs from leaking out of the shells.

Half Egg

To divide a whole raw egg in half (when halving a recipe that calls for one egg), beat it in a measuring cup just until yolks and whites are combined, then divide easily.

TODAY'S EDITORIAL

It Won't Be The Same When Jack Bows Out

Politics in Marin won't look the same any more.

John F. McCarthy is bowing out. He won't run for a sixth Senate term.

JACK McCARTHY'S announcement takes most Marinites by surprise. When a man has served as long in the legislature as has McCarthy, who is in his 20th year in the Senate, he comes to be taken for granted.

For Jack McCarthy, they have been many. None could expect, when he won a four-way race in 1950 to become the youngest state senator at the age of 26, that they would be so impressive.

MANY IN MARIN have forgotten (or never knew), for instance, that the Richmond-San Rafael Bridge is the result of a bill which McCarthy pushed to passage, over considerable obstacles, in his very first session in the Senate.

Many have forgotten (or never knew) that is was Jack McCarthy who introduced the bill to create the Bay Area Rapid Transit District — of which Marin at its inception was very much a part.

Transit has always been one of McCarthy's major interests. Beginning in 1958, he tried repeatedly for passage of a bill to create a Golden Gate Authority with powers over all forms of public transportation in the Bay Area. Only now, after numerous studies costing millions of dollars, are the experts coming around to McCarthy's long-held view that this is the sensible way to solve the transportation problem.

One of those studies resulted from a bill creating a Bay Area-wide transportation study commission, which McCarthy introduced.

He also authored the bill making possible the underwater San Francisco-Oakland tube that is a key part of the BART system. And he introduced the measure making it possible for the Marin Transit District to levy a tax to provide Marin with mass transit facilities, after the Golden Gate Bridge District decision against a second vehicular deck on the bridge took Marin out of BART.

ANOTHER McCARTHY measure which has been revived by other legislators and may yet become law would make the state superintendent of public instruction appointive by an elected state board of education. McCarthy got that on the ballot once for a constitutional amendment, but it was voted down.

Many other laws now on the books bear McCarthy's name, dealing with public health, public employees, water, public works. It was a McCarthy measure that removed the sales tax from prescription drugs.

Senator McCarthy won membership on eight Senate committees, including the powerful rules committee, and rose to become chairman of the Republican Caucus in 1959 and minority leader the year following. He remained minority leader until 1967, when he was deposed for refusing to go along with a GOP attempt to dump Democrat Hugh Burns as Senate president pro-tem.

WHEN HE HAD JUST completed his first session in the Senate, the Independent-Journal, in an editorial on July 25, 1951, commented:

"It is quite clear that, running on his record, he will be a tough candidate to beat, should anybody choose to try."

The I-J never made a more accurate prediction. Plenty did choose to try, but Jack McCarthy beat them all, four times in a row.

'Environment' Popular Issue For Election-Year Politicians

By HENRY C. MacARTHUR

SACRAMENTO (CNS) — It's amusing to watch how politicians jump on the bandwagon when a popular issue comes to the front, especially in election years.

No more potent sample has been seen in late years than "environment," which seems to be occupying the mimeographs of everyone from assemblymen to congressmen.

Reconstruction of the state's environment this year probably will prove to be the most popular issue on the legislative program. This will reach from air, to water, to earth, and is bound to affect the lives of every citizen in the state.

THIS IS NOT to say the issue shouldn't be brought up, as it probably is more important than any other which could be mentioned.

It is to say that the issue is being brought up by Johnny-Come-Latelies who see in it a means of promoting votes for themselves in an election year.

Environment, which includes air pollution, water pollution, and land pollution, and all of the off-shoots, has been important for half a century, but neglected because politicians have been unable to see far enough ahead to do much about it.

In fact, they have done nothing about it except to let the problem grown progressively worse, for the simple reason there have been more potent vote getting issues.

NOW THAT it's to the point where what they can do is too little and too late, our lawmakers, federal and state, are seeking ways to con the public into a state of acceptance of legislatiin which they feel will turn back the calendar to the days when clean air, clean water, and clean earth were commonplace.

For instance, a measure by Sen. Nicholas Petris, D-Contra Costa, banning the internal combustion engine on the highways, is being re-introduced.

This measure no doubt is laudable, but highly unacceptable to the public, for the simple reason that no substitute for transportation from here to there, is offered along with it. The very life of the nation is based on its transportation system, and if it is recommended that this segement of life be abolished without an adequate substitute, it is obvious the recommendation cannot be logically considered.

THIS IS NOT to disparage or criticize the motives of Senator Petris, who is one of the most conscientious and farsighted members of the state legislature. But it is to question the effectiveness and practicality of the proposal.

Air pollution has been building up in California since the introduction of the automobile. The public has known for at least 10 years, and perhaps more, that something should be done about it. Although studies have been inaugurated, little of permanent effectiveness has been accomplished. It can only be hoped that the efforts of the anti-polluters are not too late.

Yule Cards Cost Taxpayer Nothing

The holiday greeting card distributed by San Rafael City Schools has always been producedl at no cost to the school districts.

These cards, since their inception four years ago, have been designed by the writer. They are reproductions of local historical or geographic scenes in Marin County. The attendant card carries a story describing the painting, and lists a group of donors who contribute labor, use of equipment, and all materials used in their production. The greeting has no religious connotation and expresses only the traditional wish for a happy and successful New Year.

The reproductions have been distributed to staff, volunteers and other as a means of expressing appreciation for their many services performed for the schools.

Compost Offers Burning Solution

Throughout all the current bleak hysteria regarding the Marin County backyard burning ban, I have waited, amazed, to hear not a word of the obvious, simple, and indeed criminally neglected solution to garden-waste disposal — the compost pile.

During my 10-year residence in this county, day after day in every season I have watched, appalled, home-owners deliberately incinerate (with attendant billowing clouds of smoke) leaves, grass, weeds, clippings, all the raked effluvia that could be, in short order (3-6 months), moist, rich, crumbling loam. This is a black gold that enriches and loosens poor soil, or when spread in lavish blankets of mulch around shrubs, perrenials and trees, greatly conserves moisture and defies weeds to push through or take hold . . .

This future compost-mulch costs money to haul away, but the finished product is a small treasure. Just price bagged mulch in various forms at your local nursery.

Multiple Use Could Reduce Floods

A bouquet to your byliner Frank Farrara for getting together with Public Works Director Norris M. Rawles on the recent low pad flooding, and "telling it like it is" — truthfully. However, the thematic city council vote to seek federal funds to isolate sewage in such instances isn't the only problem requiring solution.

For some time two great national organizations, the American Society of Civil Engineers and the American Right of Way Association, have been pointing up multiple right of way use to help relieve present compounding problems created by our prolific urban expansion; in this case, drainage, period. Conceivably, with recent public demand that the highway dollar go a bit beyond its basic function, adopted State Route 17 from the vicinity of San Rafael to Olema could result in a viaduct structure through our city with a lined channel base, a new and effective Mahon Creek. There are statutory provisions enabling such cooperative projects.

Naturally, this wouldn't completely eliminate damage from the abnormally high tides we get with some of our more violent storms. But it would cut down the "disaster" frequency. And allow the low lands to drain quicker, if inundated.

Speaking cooperatively, there is also that Hub traffic flood that the neighboring City of San Anselmo would like to get off its back. Reaching a little further up the "Miracle Mile," this would be eliminated, for sure.

Ross Ignores Own Flooding Problem

A recent item in the Independent-Journal expressed the concern of the mayor of Ross about the lack of progress of the Ross Valley flood control program. This of course was after the recent heavy rains which caused considerable damage.

In light of the concern of the mayor it is very difficult to understand the attitude of the town officials toward a flood potential created and perpetuated by the town itself.

Perhaps the mayor is not aware of the fact that a considerable area bounded by Bolinas and Fernhill avenues west of hady Lane has had repeated flooding and property damage during storms of less magnitude than the recent one. In any event it should be called to his attention that the flood problem in the area referred to was created when the town permitted an open creek to be filled whereit approached and crossed Fernhill Avenue and also permitted placement of an inadequate culvert system under the fill.

The attitude of the town administration may be summed up as callous and those who have complained have even been told that the town would be happy to give the affected parties a permit to correct the condition at their own expense.

It is also difficult to understand the attitude of the county assessor's office which has only given relief when appeals have been filed but has then subsequently proceeded to raise the assessments in the area after a winter or two of dry weather has passed.

THE DRUMMONDS

Radicals Of Left And Right Pose Threats To Free Speech

By ROSCOE and GEOFFREY DRUMMOND

WASHINGTON — A necessity of the 1970s will be to protect free speech from the continuing attacks by the racist Right and the radical Left.

Each wants to use it for itself and deny it to others.

SEVERAL RECENT examples show how both sets of extremists are acting to despoil the climate of free inquiry:

At the annual meeting of the American Hisotrical Society in Washington, an organized group of self-styled "radical historians" walked out ot the meeting so they wouldn't have to hear Walt Rostow, national security aide to President Johnson, participate in a panel discussion of Southeast Asia. Evidentally these "radical historians" don't want to listen to history they don't like. Perhaps they teach history the same way.

Gov. Lester Maddox of Georgia and some like-minded politicians led a public crusade to block the appointment of former Sec. of State Den Rusk as a professor of international law at the University of Georgia.

They said openly that they didn't like his "politics," and they didn't say anything openly about the fact that his student daughter is married to a Negro. Fortunately they failed. The university board of regents voted nine to four to approve the appointment on the ground that Rusk would be a valuable addition to the faculty, a stimulating and independent mind with wide experience in the subject he would be teaching.

THE "RADICAL HISTORIANS" thought that one of their own, Staughton Lynd, formerly of Yale, would make an ideal president of the American Historical Society. But this was too much even for their fellow radical, Eugene D. Genovese, who told a Rutgers University teach-in that he would welcome a Viet Cong victory. But Genovese is one radical who wants free speech, diverse inquiry and free assembly. He said:

"It is not our business to self-righteously sit and read them (those who support the Vietnamese war) out of the human race. No member of this association who supports the war could remain a member if Lynd were elected president." He wasn't — the radicals tried. Cheers for Genovese.

THIS KIND of Joe McCarthy-type intolerance has mocked free speech and free assembly for some time. It was fanned by anti-Vietnam protesters and is still esteemed a good tactic by the radical Left.

It was arrogantly used against Rostow and achieved its purpose of keeping him from returning to his professorship at MIT because the radical Left wanted to punish the man who had served as a policy adviser to LBJ. And it was also mobilized against Rusk immediately after he left office; wherever the arrogant ones of the intellectual Left could influence the decisions, Rusk found no offer coming his way.

When two members of the Johnson cabinet were hooted and heckled so raucously and so violently on the campus of the University of Wisconsin that they couldn't finish their speeches to the students who wanted to listen, did Sen. Eugene McCarthy condemn this civil wrong? Did he say that this was the time for every man to come to the aid of the Bill of Rights?

WHAT HE SAID was that spokesmen for the President of the United States ought to find other places than college campuses to expound their views. Is this any way to protect free speech and free assembly, by baldly turning away from such disdain for free speech? What better place to practice free speech than the campus — the home of free inquiry?

Thos who understand that the freedoms of the Bill of Rights can be kept secure only as they are open to everyone's use will need to be verlastingly alert during this period when the extremists of both the Right and the Left are on the attack.

As Congress Cuts Taxes, States Plan To Hike Them

By RAYMOND LAHR

WASHINGTON (UPI) — While Congress felt it could afford to combine income tax cuts with tax reforms, governors and state legislatures are groaning about the seemingly endless chore of raising state taxes.

The year ahead should bring fewer state tax increases than 1969 because only 28 of the legislatures hold regular sessions. Legislatures in all but three states held regular sessions last year.

Reports from the Council of State Governments and the Federation of State Tax Administrators show that 37 states increased taxes in 1969 in one or more of five major fields of state revenue. These are taxes on income, sales, motor fuel, tobacco and alcoholic beverages.

SOME OF the conspicious state tax moves last year:

—Illinois and Maine adopted new income tax laws, bringing the number of states with these levies to 37. The Washington State Legislature voted to put an income tax to a referendum in 1970.

—Connecticut and Rhode Island took a very short step toward the income tax, the first by putting a tax on capital gains and the second by taxing investment income.

—Vermont became the 45th state to adopt a general sales tax.

—Fifteen states raised gasoline and other motor fuel taxes, the highest number in one year since 1955.

IN A SURVEY a year ago, the Federation of Tax Administrators found that the states had adopted 26 new taxes and voted 309 tax increase during the 10 years from 1959 to 1968. 1968. All 50 states raised taxes at least once in one of the five major fields. Some swallowed increases in individual levies several times.

For example, Wisconsin raised its income tax four times. Illinois increased its cigarette tax four times; Iowa and New Jersey raised the same tax three times.

All of these new taxes and tax increases have been voted while spending by state and local government has climbed from $46.8 billion in the 1959 fiscal year to more than $100,-billion a year now, including money from federal aid programs.

THE FEDERAL government collects more than 60 per cent of all tax revenues. Beset by tax troubles, the states are eager for a share of the federal money to be spent without restriction.

President Nixon asked Congress in mid-August to put a revenue-sharing program in motion. A Senate subcommittee with only advisory authority held hearings. No promises came from the House Ways and Means Committee, where the administration bill landed.

Righteous indignation is usually about nine parts indignation to one part righteousness. — Rev. Samuel M. Shoemaker Jr.

Soviets In Move To Protect Seals

MOSCOW (UPI)—The Soviets have extended their 12-mile territorial limit to 30 miles around a chain of islands off Alaska to protect seals from hunters who want their valuable fur.

The ass news agency, announcing the new limits Tuesday night, said no vessels will be permitted in the zone around the Komandorskiye Islands, 130 miles from America's strategic Aleutian chain.

Western trade sources said there have been recent contacts among Japanese, Soviet and American officials on proposals to protect the North Pacific seal herds, but no specific agreement has been reached.

The United States claims a three-mile limit on all its territories, including Near Island, situated across a short stretch of the northern Pacific Ocean from the Komandoriskiyes.

The Tass report mentioned other restrictions in the nation's far eastern waters without Tass said the extension fromthe the previously claimed 12-mile limit was necessary because of the serious depletion of the once huge herds of Pacific seals and Kamchatka beavers.

"The Fisheries Ministry expects that restrictions on hunting will help to build up reserves of animals whose fur fetches a high price on the world market," Tass said.

In the future, only special government enterprises and cooperatives will be allowed to said, and they will kill in accordance with limits set by research institutes.

The Soviets' adopting a 12-mile limit, claimed by some other countries, long has been a source of dispute among nations who dpeend on fishing for much of their food and income.

In recent years, incidents of arrests and damage to Japanese vessels working in waters off the Soviet-held Kurile Islands have brought the two nations to diplomatic loggerheads.

Similarly, incidents involving U.SK. AND Soviet fishing boat U.SK. AND Soviet fishing boatsh ave brought protest notes from both governments.

Hearing Set For Escaper

Preliminary hearings were set yesterday for Jan. 20 in Marin Municipal Court for a 19-year-old Lagunitas girl who had escaped from Juvenile Hall in October but who turned herself in to authorities Monday.

Victoria Ann Wilson is charged with stealing a Chicken Delight vehicle in San Francisco Sept. 14 and possessing marijuana earlier last year.

Judge Hadden W. Roth yesterday ordered her released without bail after she agreed to live with her mother. She had been held at Juvenile Hall last fall when Judge Alvin H. Goldstein Jr., also of Marin Municipal Court,said she could be placed there instead of the county jail.

Ruth Webber Begins 36th Year In Job

When she first joined the assessor's office on Jan. 7, 1935, George Hall had just been elected assessor. "It was also the year that George Jones came in as county clerk and Al Baghsaw as district attorney," Miss Weber recalls.

Randall M. Prevo, general manager of the Marin County Employees Association, said Miss Weber apparently has the longest service of any county employee.

In 1935, Hall had a full-time staff of two women and two men. The assessor's staff now totals 60.

"We did just about everything in those days," said Miss Weber. "Secretarial work and putting figures into the assessment rolls by hand." At that time the assessor also had the responsibility of collecting personal property taxes on automobiles. Today, the tax on automobiles is included in vehicle license fees.

Miss Weber worked for Hall for 24 years, and with the present assessor, Bert W. Broemmel, for 11 years, and she's still going strong. When asked about retirement, she replied: "I have no plans for retirement. I can't afford it."

A native of San Rafael, Miss Weber lives at 301 D Street. Her mother, Annie C. Weber, also of San Rafael, will be 88 in March. Her brother, Donald R. Weber, is correctional captain at San Quentin Prison.

Miss Weber is a member of the Marin County Employees Association, Tamalpais Trail Riders, National Rifle Association, Marinita Parlor of the Native Daughters of the Golden West and Pro-America.

Turner's Ouster Will Be Aired By Panel

John Turner, fired last September as director of the Economic Opportunity Council's Southern Marin Target Area, will have a hearing on his appeal from the ouster tomorrow night.

The hearing before the EOC's personnel committee at 7:30 p.m. in the EOC office at 1327 Lincoln Avenue, San Rafael, will be closed at Turner's request, announced Gil Medeiros, committee chairman.

Turner was fired by W. Robert Lomax Jr., EOC executive director. Lomax claimed anti-poverty programs in Southern Marin were virtually at a standstill, and blamed Turner's lack of direction.

Lomax has since been under fire at EOC meetings for lack of field workers in Southern Marin, and said the former field workers had been unsatisfactory and better ones were being sought.

Turner has claimed his firing resulted from charges brought by Reba Mason, his secretary, and Brian Beard, self-proclaimed Black Panther. To this, Lomax retorted that "the important thing was the atmosphere that existed that permitted the fracas between Mr. Turner and Mr. Beard."

Since the ouster, Turner has been doing unpaid, volunteer work for Reality House West at 1360 Fillmore Street, San Francisco. This is a private nonprofit organization operating a drug abuse education program.

Reality House West hopes to extend the program to Marin County, but is handicapped for lack of funds and is seeking donations to make the work possible here, according to Turner. "The need is pressing," he declared.

Mmbers of the personnel committee which will hear Turner's appeal, besides Medeiros, are Rogers Jones, Jonn H. Holm, Robert P. Simmons, Arthur Miller, Eloise Brown, Ellie Johnson, and Ozell Gibson.

Bureau Tackles Complaints On Auto Servicing

The San Francisco Better Business Bureau has joined a national BBB campaign in cooperation with four major auto makers to resolve serious automobile service and warranty complaints.

The bureau will attempt to solve complaints about General Motors, Chrysler, Ford and American Motors at a dealership or, when necessary, at the regional level.

If that fails, the bureau has an "executive hot line" to a top official in each company authorized to take necessary action to resolve the problem, Charles R. Thurber, general manager of the San Francisco bureau, said.

There are no formal educational requirements needed to join the program.

Volunteer leaders ask questions and encourage students enrolled in the program from both public and private elementary schools. The students analyze and evaluate books selected for the course.

Information may be obtained from Mrs. Hannon at 150 Ridgewood Drive, San Rafael. Registration closes Monday.
